TOOK HIS OWN LIFE!

Cashier Clarke of Enterprise National Bank of Allegheny.

PUT BULLET IN BRAIN

Spent a Sleepless and Nervous Night and Committed the Deed Wednesday Morning.

THE STATE FUNDS ARE INVOLVED

Pittsburg, October 19.—After an investigation of the books of the Enterprise National bank, Beaver avenue, Allegheny, which disclosed that the bank was insolvent, T. Lee Clark, cashier of the institution for years, went to his home, 545 Lincoln avenue, Bellevue, Tuesday midnight, spent a sleepless, nervous night, and Wednesday morning shot himself through the head. He lingered until 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, when death came. An hour before the announcement of his death was received at the bank a telegram came from the controller of the currency at Washington to close the doors and appointing Bank Examiner John B. Cunningham as receiver Following closely on the order of exciting events in lower Allegheny came the announcement of the president of the bank, Fred Gwinner, that Clark had loaned thousands of dollars to Pennsylvania politicians; that he had endorsed a note for $5,000 Wednesday for Clark, concluding with the statement, "that if the shortage was only $100,000 he would gladly pay it himself."

The bank has state deposits which will amount to about $800 000, of which $398,000 is in the checking or active account and the rest is state sinking fund.

According to the examiner's report the resources and liabilities of the Enterprise bank in the last report made August 25, $2,973,169.56 each. The Enterprise bank cleared through the Bank of Pittsburg. At that bank Wednesday afternoon it was stated that sufficient deposits were on hand from the Allegheny institution to protect the clearing house, and that all checks had been sent back to the original banks. After the meeting of the directions it was stated the books had been gone over hurridly before the meeting and that as far as they knew they were all right. The directors said that Bank Examiner Cunningham would begin immediately an examination of all the books of the bank.

Mr. Clarke was not feeling well Wednesday morning and his wife advised him to remain in bed and he consented to do so. Mrs. Clarke then went down stairs. About 8 o'clock she heard a heavy fall in the room above. Thinking her husband had fainted she hurried to the bedroom and found him lying on the floor with the revolver still in his hand, Mrs. Clarke's screams brought her two daughters and the servants to the room. Physicians were quickly called, but their services were of no avail. Mr. Clarke had taken an ounce of laudanum and then shot himself. The presence of the empty laudanum bottle beside Mr. Clarke when his wife found him is a mystery and seems to indicate that Mr. Clarke's attempt at suicide had been contemplated previously, although he had never said anything which would lead his family to believe that he intended to kill himself.

Married in Camden.

Monday morning S. W. Buddinger and Miss Doll Glenn, of Snow Shoe, took the morning train at this place, and later were married at Camden, N. J., and arrived home Wednesday evening. The news of the wedding was a complete surprise to their many friends Mr. Buddinger is a bookkeeper in his father's store and Miss Glenn had been a stenographer in the same department and that is where they wooed, and planned this event.

Clark—Compton.

John Milton Clark, son of the late William Clark, of Marsh Creek near Blanchard, and Miss Esther Courtland Compton, were married at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. M. V. Compton, of Alexandria, Louisiana, at 8 o'clock, Thursday morning of last week. The groom has been employed in the south the past three years. Mr. and Mrs. Clark will visit friends in this country while on their wedding trip through the east.

AN OCTOBER WEDDING.

Grand-daughter of Andrew G. Curtin Weds.

The Philadelphia Press of Sunday October 22 contains the following account of the wedding of Governor Curtin's grand-daughter, Miss Katherine Irvine Curtin.

The Church of the Good Shepherd, at Rosemont, was the scene of a fashionable wedding yesterday, when Miss Katherine Irvin Curtin, the daughter of Mr. and Mr. William Wilson Curtin of Rosemont, became the bride of Mr. Lawrence Johnson Brengle, of New York. The chancel of the church was artistically decorated with palms, cosmos and chrysanthemums, while great bunches of pink and white roses adorned the altar. It was a white and pink wedding.

The ceremony took place at noon, and was performed by the Rt. Rev. William Neilson McVickar, Bishop of Rhode Island, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Cooper, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Mr. Andrew Wheeler played the wedding march.

The bride was given to be married by her father and was attended by Mrs Henry Hearé, of Boston, a sister of the bridegroom, as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Helen Frazier, Miss Constance Lippincott, Miss Caroline Welsh, Miss Louise Lippitt, of Providence, R. I; Miss Honora Dixon and Miss Catharine Brinley. The best man was Mr. Henry C. Brengle. The ushers were Mr. Carroll Tyson, Mr. Lawrence Fuller, Mr. Fritz Rosengarten, Mr. Arthur P. Baugh, Mr. Keith Donaldson and Mr. James D. Winsor, Jr.

The bride wore a princess gown of heavy cream satin, with a long full train and a perfectly plain skirt. A transparent yoke of point applique lace formed the upper part of the bodice and the sleeves were elbow length. The fastenings of the waist were concealed with knots of orange blossoms. The tulle veil was fastened with a wreath of orange blossoms that had been worn by the mother of the bride at her own wedding just thirty years ago. The matron of honor wore a princess robe of white liberty satin over pink silk. Her black lace picture hat was trimmed with black ostrich plumes and a silver orchid in the front. She carried pink chrysanthemums. The frocks of the bridesmaids were of a pale shade of salmon pink cut princess. The bodices were made of ruffles of Brussels lace with tiny bands of the silk and straps of the silk over the shoulders. The skirts were garnished with three clusters of tucks, five in each cluster. The seams were covered with bands of the lace. They wore picture hats of black satin with black lace quillings and moss rosebuds nestings in the lace. Large pink ostrich plumes fell over the back. They carried pink chrysanthemums. The mother of the bride wore a magnificent gown of white satin brocade with Brussels lace trimming, and a hat of white French felt with white ostrich plumes.

After the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast and reception at Brentwood, the home of the bride's parents, at Rosemont. The house was decorated with palms, ferns and cut flowers, and the bridal couple received the congratulations of their friends in the bay window of the drawing room, which had been converted into a bower of green and white by the use of asparagus ferns and chrysanthemums. The dining-room of the Curtin home is done in old Celft blue shades, and the decorations there were entirely of pink chrysanthemums. The effect was extremely pleasing, and it was in this room that the bridal party's breakfast table was laid.

An interesting fact is that the wedding took place on the thirtieth anniversary of the wedding of the bride's parents.

The bride of yesterday is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtin. Her older sister was married to Mr. James D. Winsor, Jr., in the Summer of 1901. Mrs. Brengle made her debut the Autumn of 1902 at a tea, followed by a dinner dance, at the Philadelphia Country Club. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Brengle, of 1732 Spruce Street.

Good Advice

Pass on. Do not dwell too much upon your failures. Do not look back too much Life will not bear this retrospection, and indulgence in vain regret is not a fitting luxury for those who have their fortunes to make.

SERIOUS RAIL-ROAD STRIKE!

MOVEMENT SPREADING

And in Many Cities it is Communicating Itself to Mill and Factory Employes

THE TROUBLE IS ALL POLITICAL

S. Petersburg, Oct. 24.—The railroad strike situation has now entered on a highly serious stage. The movement is spreading rapidly to all the railroads of the empire, and apparently cannot be stopped, while in many cities it is communicating itself to the mill and factory employes. The general strike in all branches of the labor which the socialists planned for the end of this year is seemingly bursting forth of its own volition.

Minister of Finance Kakovsoff yesterday received a telegram from the governing committee of the Moscow bourse which said that a continuation of the strike for a week longer would force every factory in the Moscow region to shut down owing to lack of coal whether or not the factory hands took part in the strike.

The same condition of paralysis threatens all the trade and industry of Russia unless the strike is speedily settled. The inhabitants of Moscow are already feeling the effects of the strike in the increased prices of food and they are even confronted by famine.

As the demands of the men are purely political it seems impossible to satisfy them by economic concessions Prince Hilkoff, minister of railroads, yesterday vainly appealed to the Moscow strikers on the basis of his own experiences in England and the United States, but he spoke to deaf ears.

The situation is apparently a deadlock, from which egress can only be had by the surrender of one side or perhaps,, the proclamation of martial law on the railroads.

A flood of dispatches yesterday from Simbirsk, Saratoff, Vyizma, Poteavox, Nizhni; Novgood, Kahrkoff, Smolensk, Kief, Elizabethgrad, Kszan and other railroad centres all over Russia announced the complete tying up of all transportation.

The last link that bound Moscow, the commercial centre of the empire, with the outer world, was broken yesterday afternoon when the men on the Nicholai road connecting Moscow with St. Petersburg, went on strike. The engineers shut off steam in their engines and Prince Hilkoff had great difficulty in obtaining a crew for the special train which brought him to S. Petersburg at midnight.

Death of Andrew Walker.

Andrew Walker, one of the counties oldest citizens, died at the home of his son, Stine Walker in Ferguson township Friday evening at 11 o'clock. He died of paralysis after an illness of one week.

The deceased was 86 years of age and is survived by seven children, one of whom, is ex-sheriff W. Miles Walker, of Bellefonte. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and the funeral was held on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. Heckman was the officiating clergyman and the interment was made in Meek's cemetery.

Mrs. Curtin Taylor.

Mrs. Harriet Noll Taylor, wife of the late Curtin Taylor, died Wednesday morning at 3 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Abram Armstrong, on Water street. Her death was due to diseases incident to old age. She was born in Berks county and her age was 80 years, 11 months and 8 days. For years Mrs. Taylor resided at Pleasant Gap where she was a noble woman known for her uprightness of character. For years she had been a faithful member of the Methodist church and lived according to its teachings. Her maiden name was Harriet Noll, and was married to Curtin Taylor March 13, 1844, who died Sept. 19, 1901.

The deceased is survived by three children: George, Irvin and Mrs. Abram Armstrong, of Bellefonte, and one sister Mrs. S. C. Harmon, of Portsmouth, Ohio. The funeral took place Friday morning at 10 o'clock, Interment at Pleasant Gap.

REV. C. T. AIKENS.

Popular Minister Becomes President of Susquehanna University.

Sunday Oct. 15, was a busy day for Rev. C. T. Aikens, the popular pastor of the Lutheran congregation at Pine Grove. At 10:30 a. m. he held his closing services at Pine Hall church which was filled to overflowing and at 2:30 p. m. communion service at Pine Grove Mills. Long before the hour the church was filled to standing room, everyone eager to hear his parting words which he based on Paul's letter to the Corinthians, strongly urging charity, love and gentleness, giving his flock good counsel for the relationship between and the new pastor whomsoever he may be. His last official act as pastor was the confirmation into the church of four young people—Ella Sanssermar, Charles A. Kepler, Samuel Hess and his own son, Claude. This was followed by the baptizing of baby Miles Leslie Walker and Nadine Bretamart Fortney and the administering the Lord's Supper to 156 communicants. The statement of his long service of 17 years is as follows: Sermons preached 2024, officiated at 240 funerals, baptized 374 children, officiated at 166 weddings, members enrolled, 180 in Pine Grove charge, 130 in Pine Hall charge and 105 in the Gatesburg congregation. Pastoral visits, 1420; miles traveled by horse and buggy at his pastorate work 28000, Salary, including funeral and wedding fees $13,410; benevolent fund $6,380; appeals, $12,000,00; general expense $4000.00; building and repairs, $32,636. A glorious record to leave behind! For the last dozen years his was one of the banner charges in the Central Pennsylvania synod always coming up to the 100 per cent mark. The report was heard with feelings of gladness mingled with regret or, while his people are glad of the honor that was conferred upon him in being made president of the Susquehanna University they view with sorrow his departure from the community in which he has labored so busy and faithfully.

Our people only begin to realize what a loss they have sustained. A man among men, his efforts were not directed alone to the moral uplift of the community but to the improvement of business affairs as well and any university is indeed fortunate in securing the services of such a man Mrs. Aikens is a woman of culture, gracious and winning personality—just such a woman as is ideal for the wife of a college president. Rev. and Mrs. Aikens bade adieu to their friends at 7 p. m. Monday Oct. 16, when they stepped into their buggy for the journey spending the night with friends in Boalsburg; the second night at Mifflinburg, expecting to arrive at their destination on Thursday evening, Oct 19. They are favored by the well wishes of an entire community who hope that their harvest of good in the new field may be most abundant.

The Y. M. C. A. Building Nearing Completion,

Monday morning, Haupt Bros, began laying the concrete in the basement of the Y. M. C. A. building. When this work is done, all that remains to make the building ready for occupancy is the putting on of the finishing. This work will be hurried along as fast as possible. The amount necessary to complete the building, aside from the amount yet to be received from the $5000 mortgage which will remain on the property unless some of our generous friends help to reduce it, has all been subscribed. One payment is to be made the contractor yet before he finishes the work, the balance payable when he turns over the building complete. Collections to meet this payment are now being made and all subscribers should see the necessity of responding at this time. A small fund is already on hand towards the furnishings and a committee of the board has been at work selecting the gymnasium apparatus and will order the bowling alleys as soon as a representative of the company handling them can meet the committee.

Altogether the outlook is encouraging but the Association still needs the cooperation of every friend of young men that all its hopes for the work may be fully realized.

A Shooting at Scotia.

Ralph Williams, aged 13, died on his way to the Altoona Hospital Friday evening from wounds recived at the hands of Bert Delige, a negro, at Scotia, Centre county. George Williams, the boy's father, states that a number of boys in a saloon yard were taunting the negro when he aimed a shot gun he was carrying and fired the charge tearing off young Williams, leg below the knee. Delige was arrested and Saturday was brought to the Centre county jail.

MAY BE LESSENED!

Loss Through Failure of Enterprise National Bank May not be So Great.

RIDGELY IS EXPECTED

One Rumor Was That He Had Arrived but This Was not Verified, Although Mail Awaits Him.

STILL TALK OF LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

Pittsburg, October, 25.—Renewed interest is being manifested in the Enterprise National bank affairs by the report that William B. Ridgely, comptroller of the currency, is in this city Tuesday to take charge of the institution, though all efforts to locate him have been unsuccessful. It is known, however, that mail awaits him at the Hotel Lincoln.

Bank Examiner Cunningham, receiver of the Enterprise bank, remains silent regarding the bank's affairs and emphatically denies that he has made any of the conflicting statements that have been credited to him. He reiterates that his report, when finished will be made to Washington.

A meeting of the directors of the Standard Building and Loan association Nos. 1 and 2, of which the late Cashier Clark was treasurer, has been called for Wednesday. The directors say a hurried inspection of the books show the accounts to be satisfactory.

When Receiver Cunningham was seen at the bank he said he had received no word from Comptroller Ridgely and knew of no reason why he should come here to assist in the affairs of the bank. Comptroller Ridgley, he said, is expected here some time soon to look after some private business and may, of course, look into the affairs of the bank while here.

It is expected that the decision whether to again open the bank or not will be reached within ten days. It is believed that by that time Receiver Cunningham will have completed his examination and the directors will be made aware of the amount of deficit that will have to be made up before the comptroller of the currency will permit the bank to reopen. It is known that most of the directors, if indeed not all, are in favor of opening the bank, and if the amount to be made up is not too large it is believed there will be no trouble in raising the amount as most of the directors are wealthy.

It is believed that when Receiver Cunningham makes known his report of the bank loss, it will be considerably less than a million dollars, as was first reported. This diminution of the shortage, it is said, has been brought about by the payment of many of the notes and the obligations in possession of the bank when it closed may never be known.

There is still talk that legal proceedings in connection with the bank's affairs will be taken, but in what form they will be instituted has not developed. It is said the directors will not fight the action of the state treasurer in recovering on their bonds protecting the state fund of over a million.

Cheap Candy a Foe to Children.

The common habit of eating candy, and what is worse, candy of the suburban and country store variety, is undoubtedly responsible for many of these minor digestive attacks. What shall we do about it? If we arrange to give our families, once a week as part of their dessert at dinners, a reasonable amount of really good candy, and forbid the indiscriminate eating of the other kind, cannot we break up this between-meal habit, and control the matter completely? And in trying this candy for our tables, let us not grudge the extra expense of buying the best quality to be had. It is both money and health saved in the end. Molasses chips are safe and good, so are the really good caramels and Swiss chocolates, etc., and much more wholesome than the home-made "fudge," which almost inevitably brings sick headaches in its wake.

The W. C. T. U. Convention at Washington, Pa.

On October 6th 1905 at Washington, Pa., the 31st Annual Convention of the Pennsylvania W. C. T. U. was held. Two hundred and ninety-six delegates, besides many visitors were present. From October 6th to October 10th this convention was in session, after roll call and the responsive exercises the convention was called to order by its President Mrs. Rebecca B Chambers of West Grove Pa. This gathering representing seventeen thousand of a membership in Pennsylvania was unique, and the visitor could not but be impressed with this fact in listening to the results of the years activity given by the superintendents of the thirty-five departments activity worked in the Pennsylvania W. C. T. U. Five days were closely filled in with these reports which aroused from time to time much enthusiasm none were neglected but often business was suspended to send greetings to the absent ones, and courtesies to the various visitors of other organizations who were present for the purpose of securing the cooperation of the W. C. T. U. in their lines of work, some of whom were the State Federated Woman's Clubs other temperance associations and the various political parties and Woman suffrage association. The skilled use of parliamentary rules in the convention left little doubt as to womans capability for handling the ballot. It must be remembered that this gathering was composed almost entirely of our home makers the mothers and daughters of our state, who are aiming to secure the best environment around that most sacred place the "home the "W. C. T. U." has taught our women to think, and she is, and must be an intelligent individual to belong to this organization; the Evangelistic spirit was pronounced through all the sessions of Convention opening with religious exercises. The "noon tide" hour of Prayer, and a daily half hour devoted to a Bible lecture given by Madame Layyah Barakat, a Syrian, of remarkable personal history, her portrayal of Bible truths can never be forgotten, she has lived in this country twenty-three years and is closely identified with the evangelistic department of the W. C. T. U. and additionally interested in the prison work in her city of Philadelphia. Sabbath observance is another very strong department reported also railroad work soldiers and sailors scientific temperance instruction, child labor, white slave trade, narcotics, food adulteration, legislature, "purity and purity in literature and art" physical education, social department in the parlor meetings, loyal temperance light bearers representing the work among the babies and larger children.

The Y. W. C. T. U. Press Department and work among foreigners and miners, what could be more inspiring than the rich harvest gathered from such a field. The annual convention sermon delivered by Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, was peculiarly adapted to each individual worker, in it was emphasized the value of results from concentrated, consecrated organized effort, about two thousand listened in absolute stillness, to this sermon marked by deep spirituality throughout. Her text was Psalm 68th and eleventh verse, "The Lord giveth the word and great is the company of women that publisheth it." This is the latest revision of this verse. On October 10th this remarkable convention ceased. Behold what hath God wrought.

It Pays to Advertise.

A good story was told at a bankers' convention in Pittsburg to illustrate the results which can be achieved by constant advertising. In a Pittsburg rolling mill a bar of steel weighing half a ton was suspended by a chain, and near it was hung a bottle cork by a silk thread. The cork was allowed to swing against the great mass of metal, striking each time the same spot. No result was perceptible for at least ten minutes when the bar began to quiver: In thirty-five minutes it was swinging like the pendulum of a clock. Advertisers who expect immediate results from a single advertisement spasmodically placed before the public would do well to ponder over this story. It is the presistent hammering kept up month after month and year after year that is certain to start the pendulum of success swinging in your direction.

ED G. CUNLIFEE CAUGHT

The Man Wanted for Taking $101,000 Captured at Bridgeport, Conn,

HE TELLS A STORY

Declared the Money he Took is Intact But for the Present Declines to Tell Where it is Hidden.

RODE ON A SLEEPER TO NEW YORK

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 20 - Edward George Cunliffe, wanted in Pittsburg, Pa. for the robbery of $101,000 in cash from the Adams Express Co was arrested here yesterday.

Cunliffe is said to have made a clean breast of the matter to Pinkerton detectives and to have expressed his willingness to return without extradition papers.

Cunliffe declared that the money which he took was intact and that it could be restored, but he declined to tell until his return to Pittsburg, where it is hidden On his person when arrested. the detectives found $290 in cash.

Detectives under the direction of Daniel G Thornhill, superintendent of the Pinkerton agency, of New York, traced Cunliffe here. and upon their arrival early this morning the aid of the local policemen and detectives was enlisted. All the hotels were watched carefully, but Cunliffe was not arrested until late yesterday forenoon, when he was seen by Superintendent Thornhill walking down Middle street. Thornhill called to his aid Policeman O'Connell and the local officer placed the man under arrest. Cunliffe made no attempt to deny his identity and offered no resistance.

"Five minutes after I took the money I was sorry," said Cunliffe, "but it was too late to do anything. What can you expect from a man getting a salary of only $65 a month and handling thousands of dollars a day? I was temped and I fell. I have handled larger sums. I remember once when I had $250,000 in cash I was tempted then, but I thought it over and decided to be honest.

"The night that I left Pittsburg I rode in a sleeper on the way to New York and I stuck my head out of my berth and saw Slater pass by. Slater is our local manager in Pittsburg. I thought then that I would turn back, but knowing that he did not see me and that I had the money with me in cash I thought I would take the chance. I want to go back to Pittsburg, restore the money and throw myself upon the mercy of the courts."

"ANTIKNOCKERS" CLUB.

Coal Men Organize Society to Encourage Square Deal.

President Roosevelt's principle of a square deal for all recently found expression among the coal men of the United States at the Great Northern hotel in Chicago when more than a hundred traveling salesmen representing both anthracite and bituminous branches of the industry met and organized the Order of Ko-Koal, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

The purpose of the order is to promote good fellowship, to discourage the practice of "knocking" and to encourage a square deal between the members of the coal trade. Secretary Arthur M. Hull believes that the membership list will number 500 before Jan. 1.

Officers were elected as follows: Modoc, George M. Barclay; baron, Frank H. Collins; baronel, H. B. Dupuy; baronette, C. F. Lemmon; pictor, Arthur M. Hull; mazumer, A. F. Boos; gazook, L. Romanski; pitboss, Sam M. Stanley; acolyte, A. B. Lemmon; swatta, C. R. Shabino; spotta, J. A. Eggenberger.

The organization is designed to play the same part in the coal trade as the Hoo-Hoos in the lumber trade.

CROWN FOR AMERICAN GIRL

Newark (N. J.) Preacher, After a Foreign Trip, Makes a Prophecy.

The Rev. Dr. Daniel H. Martin of the Clinton Avenue Reformed church, Newark, N. J., who returned recently from England, says, according to the New York Times, that he believes an American girl will soon occupy one of the thrones of Europe.

"There is a sort of tremor in the average European nervous system," he declared, "over the colossal fortunes that are piling up in America. Some of the journals seem to be in dread lest a Morgan or a Carnegie buy up all their art treasures and send them to America. Already you may see in the shop windows the sign 'Made In America' or 'American Style' by way of commending the articles.

"The European aristocracy is evidently trying to forestall the American invasion by monopolizing the great American heiresses and thus making their country profit by our wealth. There are 192 American women in the aristocratic circles of England and seventy-eight in France. I am looking forward to seeing an American girl on a European throne? Why not?"

Submersible Boats For French Navy.

An important step has been taken by the French naval department, according to the London Globe, for providing the French fleet with submersible boats, as distinguished from submarines. Eighteen of these boats of a size larger than any yet laid down are to be built at Cherbourg. They are to have a displacement of 358 tons, a length of 150 feet and a surface speed of 12 knots. The boats, which will move by steam on the surface, will be provided with twin screws and engines of 700 horsepower. On each boat there will be seven or eight torpedo tubes.

Long Watch For Treed Bear.

Clarence Ringler while coon hunting in the woods near Trout Run, Pa., on a recent Saturday night treed a black bear, says a Williamsport (Pa.) special dispatch to the New York World. It was too dark to distinguish his hiding place, so Ringler camped at the foot of the tree until dawn. Then he remembered that there is a penalty of $25 for shooting on Sunday, but if he left the tree the bear would come down and escape. There was no other way than to remain on guard, and this he did until 6 o'clock Monday morning, when he shot the bear. It weighed 287 pounds.

No woman can look beautiful without good health. A woman's good health depends on those organs peculiarly feminine, and which so often become disordered, causing misery and dragging-down pain. Nature's laws are perfect, health endures if you obey them, but disease follows disobedience. The distressing complaints of women are often brought about by catching cold at a critical period, breathing foul indoors' air and long hours of work and nervous tension. Go straight to Nature for the cure—to the forest. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is Nature's cure for the distressing complaints of women. Prof. King, M. D., in his American Dispensatory, says of Black Cohosh or Black Snake-root—"our early American Indians set a high value on this root in diseases of women. It is surpassed by no other drug, in congestive conditions of the parts where there are dragging pains and tenderness."

Lady's Slipper root is a "nerve stimulant and tonic, improving both circulation and nutrition of the nerve centers—favoring sleep and cheerful condition of the mind; of service in mental depression, nervous headache, irregularities of women with despondency."—Prof. King. Besides the above ingredients there are—Golden Seal, Unicorn and Blue Cohosh roots in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

MADE A CONFESSION!

COVERS THE OPERATION

It Is Said to have Been in the Vault of the Bank and now in the Hands of Temporary Receiver.

DENIAL FROM SENATOR PENROSE

Pittsburg, Oct. 21.—The sensation today in the investigation of the affairs of the suspended Enterprise National bank of Allegheny was the report that among the dead cashier's papers was found a confession giving in detail the operations which culminated in his death and the closing of the bank. The confession, or statement, it is learned from the best of authority, consists of a short paper, written with a lead pencil, stating that W. H Andrews is responsible for the whole trouble.

Details of the statement are not known, but Andrews is the only name mentioned. The paper was found among Clark's private papers.

Fred Gwinner, Sr., president of the bank, stated positively that notes for large amounts are in possession of the bank which bear the names of W. H. Andrews, F. J. Torrance and other politicians.

Vice President Bradberry said that the directors of the bank had opened Mr. Clark's desk on Thursday and had turned over his private papers to inspector Cunningham. The directors were not cognizant of the contents of the papers.

Late last night it is reported that a secret conference of Mr. Clark's lawyer the directors of the bank and their attorney, was held. What is being discussed cannot be found out.

Pittsburg, October 21.—It was reported Friday afternoon that among the private papers of T. Lee Clark, the dead cashier of the Enterprise National bank, is a complete confession of the operations which brought about his ruin and the closing of the bank. This confession, it is said, narrates minutely at the steps in the proceedings attending the securing of the bank's funds and how the loans were made, together with the names of the parties concerned. The paper is said to have been found in the vault of the bank and is now in the hands of Bank Examiner Cunningham, temporary receiver, but so far as known the directors of the bank are not aware of their nature. An effort was made to communicate with Mr. Cunningham regarding the alleged confession but without success. He was not at the bank Friday or at his office in the federal building.

Philadelphia, October 21.—United States Senator Boies Penrose Friday night denied emphatically the rumors connecting him with loans from the bank. Senator Penrose's statement follows:

"I have no obligations of any kind in the Enterprise National bank, I am not connected in any way, directly or indirectly, with notes of W. H. Andrews, if there are any such in the Enterprise National bank. I have no interest whatever in the Pennsylvania Development company or with any project in New Mexico. Any intimation to the contrary are malicious falsehoods for political effect."

New Mining Powder Abolishes Headache.

A new smokeless powder manufactured and used extensively in the south was successfully tested in the anthracite region for the first time at Cambridge and Park Place collieries at Mahanoy City this week. If what is claimed for the new powder is true, miners say, splitting headaches from powder smoke and malodorous air, after blasts, will be things of the past.

Besides being smokeless, the new explosive has greater strength than the ordinary powder, and is far less subject to detonation from trivial causes. Fire is said to have little effect upon it.

A composition which comes in block form, but which readily melts into oil on the application of gentle heat, was also tested in place of miners' oil. It is said plans for the manufacture of both articles will be built in Reading.

SAVE THE ORCHARDS.

Important State Work Commenced in Centre County.

First gun of the State's campaign against the destructive San Jose Scale Insect to be fired in the orchard of Col. W. Fred Reynolds, near Bellefonte, Oct. 27th.

The first practical demonstration of the most approved and successful method of fighting the San Jose Scale which is destroying so many orchards in this state will be given on Friday Oct. 27th, from ten to eleven-thirty a. m., in the orchard of Col. W. Fred Reynolds, a few miles southwest of Bellefonte, on one of the back roads between Bellefonte and State College. This will be a public meeting and is arranged for the two purposes of showing practical orchardists who may wish to attend it, how to treat the San Jose Scale when it is present in orchards and of illustrating the methods of this practical work in the presence of the twenty-one orchard demonstrators, who will at that time be taking special instruction in the Pennsylvania State College preparatory to opening the general campaign against the scale all over the State of Pennsylvania about Oct. 30 under the directions of Prof. H. A. Surface, Economic Zoologist of the State Department of Agriculture.

During the second half of October 21 men are receiving special instructions in both theory and practice of combatting insects and plant diseases, this being done by the co-operation of the State College and the State Department of Agriculture. The instruction is given by lectures, laboratory work, practical orchard methods, including spraying with different insectocides and different kinds of apparatus, and also reading the latest and best literature upon these topics. The chief lecturers Prof. H. A. Surface, State Zoologist, Prof. Geo. C. Butz, P of Horticulture and Dr. Wm. A. Buckhout, P. of Botany. Some lectures upon various features of orcharding will also be given by Dr. Wm. Frear, Prof. of Chemistry, Prof. W. S. McDowell and others. These demonstrators will then go to their assigned sections in different parts of the State. where all will undertake the same kind of work that is to be shown in the orchard of Col. Reynolds. The public is invited to attend this important demonstration, and see how insecticides are made and applied.

Blade of Hatchet Thrust into Boyd Heckman's Back.

Boyd Heckman and a companion by the name of Walker, of near Mackeyville, left their homes early Thursday morning to hunt on the mountain near the sand springs, south of their homes. When they reached the mountain the young men separated for a time. Mr, Heckman had a hatchet strapped to his back and in walking over the wet mountain side he slipped and fell on his back, the blade of the hatchet being thrust into the muscles of his back near the spine and kidneys. He succeeded in around and drew the ax from the wound bleeding profusely, he called for his companion who finally heard him and came to his assitance. Learning of the dangerous injury to his companion, Mr. Walker hurried to the valley and succeeded in getting John P. Fortney and his carriage to the scene. Mr, Fortney hauled the injured man to this home and his companion hurried for Dr. Dumm, who upon examination found it necessary to have the aid of another surgeon, whereupon Dr. R. B. Watson, of Lock Haven. was summoned. It is not yet known what the full extent of the injury and the young man's chances for recovery are.

Advice.

It is very easy to give advice, but it is very much harder to practice it. It is easy to prescribe medicine. but even physicians find it a whole lot harder to take their own medicine. There are vast quantities of advice given in flowery orations and eloquent addresses, and you think when you go home you will put that into practice at once but if you ever begin, you soon discover that you would be a miserable creature if you kept it up, for it did not fit you at all. The wise man, after all, is the one who hears to learn, but does not consider everything good he hears applicable to himself. Just lie under your own figtree and the droppings there will be all you need or can care for; and you don't need to go out into the forest with its greater possibilities to find this out. either.

A Hand to Hand Fight on Top of a Box Car.

On top of a box car being hauled over the road at the rate of 30 miles an hour, Officer E. L. Simmers of the Reading, lone-handed, had a thrilling fight with eight men between Sunbury and Snydertown on Thursday afternoon.

Simmers boarded the freight train, which was three hours late, at Sunbury at about 2 o'clock, says the Sunbury Daily. While going over the train at the Susquehanna silk mills he came across eight men on top of a box car. All were drunk and raising cain.

Thinking that they might have been implicated in the big robbery at Hall's station Simmers began to search their clothing. Two of the party submitted peacefully to the search, but when the officer came to the tallest and heaviest member of the gang he refused to be searched, and became ugly.

Simmers drew a revolver and when the big fellow attempted to grab him, struck him a ringing blow on the head with the butt end of the weapon, felling the man and rendering him unconscious on the top of the car.

This aroused the anger of his pals and they began preparations to toss Simmers from the fast moving train.

Being armed, Simmers informed the men that he would kill the first one who advanced a step toward him.

The drunken men shouted to each other to "Kill the s—" meaning Simmers But the officer never weakened and kept the men at bay until the train pulled in on the siding at Snydertown. Before the train arrived at a full stop, the bums, with their injured companion who had regained consciousness in the meantime, jumped off and escaped.

Boy Acquitted of Murder.

Detroit, Oct. 23.—Johnnie Goodson, an eleven-year old boy, who on August 18 shot and killed Hannah McQuade, a girl about twelve years of age, was Friday afternoon acquitted of the charge of manslaughter by a jury in the circuit court. The little boy, who had maintained a brave front throughout the trial, broke down and cried when the verdict was announced.

Young Goodson and several more lads of about his own age met a party of young girls driving in Greenfield township, just outside the city limits They began teasing the girls and trying to climb into their buggy. The boys had been spending the day in the woods and Goodson had a gun with him. He pointed it at Hannah McQuade while the boys were trying to get into the buggy and it went off.

The boy maintained that the gun was fired by accident.

The Doll Bazaar and Fair.

The Fair for the benefit of Petrikin Hall will open on Tuesday or Wednesday Nov. 14 or 15, and continue several days. Numerous attractions will add to its interest. As no general canvassing is being done for contributions, we will follow the example of the Hon. Solomon Dresser in his invitations to his "house warming" and ask all who read this to contribute something nice in the way of fancy or useful articles, that will be saleable as X-mas presents, and then to come and buy. All will be welcome. Please send articles to Mrs. Dr. VanTries, Miss Mary Blanchard or Mrs. John P. Harris.

URGES LESS EATING.

Edison Says Americans Are Food and Sleep Drunk.

HARDER WORK RECOMMENDED

That With Few Hours of Rest and Small Meals the Wizard's Remedy For All Ills—Men, He Declares, Sometimes Eat and Sleep Themselves Into the Grave.

Americans don't work enough; also they sleep too much. Such are the assertions of Thomas A. Edison, according to James Creelman, who recently interviewed the inventor at his laboratory for the New York World. Incidentally Mr. Edison says Americans eat too much, and as evidence of this he offers the fact that he has lived for two months on four ounces of food three times a day.

"Yes, it's true the country is food drunk," said Mr. Edison. "I'm not so much interested in the economic side of overeating at a time when the cost of living is increasing, but I have investigated the subject enough to know that man can't do good, clear, logical brain work with his stomach full of undigested food.

"The fact is that people eat too much, sleep too much and don't work enough. The average man would be much better off and would do very much better work if he would cut down his food and sleep and labor a little harder. Men eat and sleep themselves stupid. Sometimes they eat and sleep themselves into the grave. They talk about working too hard. That is absolute nonsense. Generally speaking, a man can't work too hard.

"Why, I've worked for five days and nights without sleep and with very little food and did as good work in those conditions as I ever did in my life. That was when I was working out the incandescent light idea. It's all a matter of habit.

"Some time ago my stomach troubled me. I didn't know what was the matter, but I imagine now that it was the X ray that caused some internal constriction. However, when my trouble was acute I began to experiment with my diet to see what would come of it. I had always been a light eater, but I decided to cut down my food still more.

"For two months I lived on four ounces of food for each meal. That made twelve ounces of food a day. Of course I varied my food. I would take a teaspoonful of peas, a small piece of toast and caviar, a tiny sandwich, a little bit of ham, a fragment of rye bread, with Swiss cheese and so on.

"What was the result? At the end of two months of this diet I weighed just as much as when I began, exactly 185 pounds. I found that living on twelve ounces of food a day for four weeks had made me mentally brighter and had neither diminished my strength nor my weight. And, mind you, I had been working just as hard as before I cut down the size of my meals.

"As for sleep, that is another prevailing form of intemperance. People sleep too much. They drug themselves with sleep. The truth is that this vice of oversleeping is a habit. If a man will only try to get along with less sleep he will be surprised to discover how little he really needs. And he will find his faculties very much improved by the effort.

"It is not so much the quantity as the quality of sleep that counts. The man who lies eight or nine hours in bed, tossing about from time to time, doesn't get anything like as much rest as the man who sleeps soundly for five hours.

"We are slaves to sleep. Why, for instance, should we go to sleep at night? The only difference between night and day is that the sun goes down in one case and comes up in the other. What difference should that make? I suppose it is simply habit acquired through thousands of years of ancestry. We have become like the chickens, who go to roost when it is dark. I cannot account for it except on the ground of long continued habit.

"Another common mistake is to look upon hard work as injurious. You see Mr. This-and-that-and-the-other-fellow announcing that he has been working very hard and must go off to Europe for a rest. Bosh! He has been eating and drinking too much and hasn't worked half enough.

"The healthy man can't work too hard or too much. When his work tires him out he will go to sleep and will get the right kind of sleep.

"Work, hard work, simply puts an edge on a man for more hard work. If he is dull and can't sleep let him work a little more. If that doesn't help matters let him work still more and still harder. In the end he will come out all right.

"Smoking tobacco is a pretty good working stimulant. I find it much better than drink of any kind. Alcohol seems to scatter the thoughts. It's a poor thing to work on. But tobacco helps.

"But cigarettes! They're deadly. It isn't the tobacco, it's the acrolein produced by the burning paper that does the harm, and, let me tell you, acrolein is one of the most terrible drugs in its effect on the human body. The burning of ordinary cigarette paper always produces acrolein. That is what makes the smoke so irritating. I really believe that it often makes boys insane. We sometimes develop acrolein in this laboratory in our experiments with glycerin. One whiff of it from the oven drove one of my assistants out of the building the other day. I can hardly exaggerate the dangerous nature of acrolein, and I am sure that a man or a boy is dealing with every time he smokes an ordinary cigarette."

Sir Henry Irving.

We bring to your bier fresh laurels,
We lay at your bier new bay;
Then we weave a wreath of immortelles
And crown you king of the play.

Great in the fields of the artist
Who plays with the minds of men;
Great in the great achievement
Of bringing within the ken

Of millions the dreams of poets
Who lived in the ages past,
All honor to thee, Sir Henry:
You have won the reward at last

That waits for the student and scholar,
Who is peer in the dear world's part,
And we leave our wreath in sorrow
At the bier of your brave, true heart.

ENGLAND'S NEW WARSHIP.

Dreadnought Will Be the Largest Man-of-war Afloat.

The keel plate of the Dreadnought, which is to be the most powerful battleship in the world, has been laid at Portsmouth, England, says a London cable to the New York World. Her displacement will be 18,000 tons. She will be armed with ten twelve-inch guns of the latest type, each capable of throwing a 960 pound shell a distance of twenty miles, with a muzzle velocity of upward of 2,500 feet a second. Her striking power will be as great as any three battleships of ordinary type at such a range as that at which the engagement opened in the battle of Tsushima strait, for no other warship hitherto has mounted more than four twelve-inch guns, so there is nothing afloat that can stand up against her in a sea action.

About 11,000 tons of armor will be built into her hull, and the Dreadnought will be driven by turbines at twenty knots' speed. For the first time on record on a battleship the officers' quarters will be placed forward, the designer's chief difficulty being to provide accommodation for the 900 officers and men, owing to the great demands on her space made by ammunition, storage of coal, etc.

She will carry 500 tons of projectiles for her main guns, 200 tons of cordite charges, 300 tons of stores, 2,500 tons of coal and guns to a weight of 600 tons without mountings. She is designed to be a floating fortress of the most formidable type.

THE SLOW PACED LORIS.

This Animal Is the Slowest Moving Mammal in Existence.

Scientists say that the slowest moving mammal in existence is the slow paced loris, an animal more or less closely allied to the monkeys. Its technical name is "nycticibus tardigradus," the last part of which might be translated "lazy footed." One of them when timed took exactly thirty-two minutes and three seconds in moving across a space of four feet toward a roach that it was endeavoring to capture. The animal belonged to an Asiatic genus that extends from Java and Sumatra and Borneo and quite possibly some of the Philippine Islands, through parts of Hindustan. When its progress was timed it advanced "within ten or twelve inches of its quarry, rested upon its hands, drew its hind feet gradually forward until almost under its breast, very slowly and cautiously raised itself upright into a standing position, balancing awkwardly with uplifted arms, and then threw itself bodily—not upon the insect, which was off like an arrow from a Tartar's bow, but upon the spot the roach had occupied half a second before."

In this species the different parts of the hands and feet are so divided as to form two lobes, resembling in shape and in function those of the chameleon. The animal creeps very slowly toward its prey, taking a secure hold of a supporting limb or branch with one hand or with one foot, bringing forward another, just as does the chameleon. The round, protruding eyes and the slow, mechanical movements remind one of the lizard, while the insect feeding habits of both are identical except that the chameleon hunts by day and the loris by night. The latter even possesses a second auxiliary tongue, which can have no other purpose than to aid the creature in catching flies, just as the development of such a member assists the insect catching lizard.

A very curious formation, consisting of an arrangement of the blood vessels, called by recent physiologists "the wonderful network" (rete mirabile), belongs to all species of slow loris. The limbs, instead of being supplied with arteries and with veins, are furnished with two series of blood vessels lying closely parallel to each other. One series is of hairlike tenuity and the other somewhat larger, joined to the first by short, tubular projections. This rete gives great muscular power in executing very deliberate, gradual, almost imperceptible, motion continued for a long time.

DESKS OF FAMOUS MEN.

There Are Many of Them Scattered About the Country.

The desk of Salmon P. Chase, a plain piece of furniture made from mahogany, is in one of the rooms of the treasury department at Washington. There are many of these old desks scattered about the country, their chief claim to interest being that once some well known man leaned over them.

Alexander Hamilton's traveling desk, made of mahogany and measuring 12 by 16 inches and 10 inches high, is an interesting object. Upon this desk was written much of his literary work, and the worn green baize with which it is lined attests to the use to which it was put. There is a drawer in one side and several compartments for pens and

ARTISTIC TEMPERAMENT.

Defined as a Disease That Afflicts Amateurs.

Gilbert K. Chesterton's "Heretics" contains some of his keenest and most amusing writing. Of great men he observes: "The first rate great man is equal with other men, like Shakespeare. The second rate great man is on his knees to other men, like Whitman. The third rate great man is superior to other men, like Whistler." In the following there may be discovered as much truth as humor:

"The artistic temperament is a disease that afflicts amateurs. It is a disease which arises from men not having sufficient power of expression to utter and get rid of the element of art in their being. It is healthful to every sane man to utter the art within him; it is essential to every sane man to get rid of the art within him at all costs. Artists of a large and wholesome vitality get rid of their art easily, but in artists of less force the thing becomes a pressure and produces a definite pain, which is called the artistic temperament. Thus very great artists are able to be ordinary men—men like Shakespeare or Browning. There are many real tragedies of the artistic temperament, tragedies of vanity or violence or fear, but the great tragedy of the artistic temperament is that it cannot produce any art.

THE BRIDES OF VENICE.

An Ancient Custom That Once Had a Rude Interruption.

In the year 902, according to old custom, all the brides for the year at Venice assembled on St. Mary's eve at the cathedral, taking with them their dowries in small chests. There they awaited their bridegrooms, who followed them, and after mass they were married and received the bishop's blessing.

In this year the sea rovers of Trieste burst in upon the expectant maidens, who were all dressed in white, with hair loosely flowing and interwoven with threads of gold, carried them off to their barks and hoisted sail.

The doge of Venice summoned his men to arms, pursued the rovers, overtook them in a creek still known as the Port of the Damsels and brought the brides back in triumph.

In memory of this event a solemn procession of twelve young women took place yearly, and the Marian games were observed with great splendor until the year 1379, when they were discontinued in a time of disastrous war.—London Standard.

BULWER'S ODDITIES.

The Fight the Author Made Against Signs of Old Age.

Bulwer's appearance was decidedly what is generally understood by "aristocratic" or what the French call "distingue." Tall, slim, with finely cut features, prominent among which was a long aquiline nose, with an abundant crop of curly brown hair and a full beard, the first impression he produced, aided by a careful toilet, was one of ease and elegance. At a dinner table, where he liked to speak, and, if possible, to speak alone, he was certainly useful as well as ornamental with his large blue ribbon and star of the Order of the Bath. There was a certain naivete, strange as that word may sound when applied to so confirmed a man of the world, in his vain and very apparent struggle against the irresistible encroachment of age. He did not give in with that philosophical resignation which might have been expected of one so clever and in some respects so wise. He fought against it tooth and nail. Lord Lytton's hair seemed dyed, and his face looked as if art had been called in to rejuvenate it. A quack in Paris had pretended to cure his growing deafness, a constant source of legitimate grief to him. He was radiant one autumn on his return to town because he thought he was cured, but not for long. The copious use of snuff was no doubt part of the attempted cure, of which the most palpable results were large dark red or blue pocket handkerchiefs, quite out of harmony with his otherwise elegant toilet. His expressions of regret at his impaired digestive organs had something ludicrous about it. He would point with a sigh to a rosy cheeked American apple and say, "To think that there are people who can eat that!"

One of his physical infirmities—his deafness—proved a bar to his ambition. He was sorely disappointed when Lord Beaconsfield, instead of including him in his last cabinet, "kicked him upstairs" into the house of lords, principally because he could not follow the debate.—Rudolph Lehman's "Recollections."

EDITORIAL.

Lincoln A. Swartz is the man for County Treasurer. Elect him and you will be satisfied.

Vote for Cyrus T. Hall and you will be assured of first class service in the Recorder's office.

General Beaver is deserving of a large vote in his home county of Centre. He will get it to.

Harry Jackson has had seventeen years at the public crib. Don't you think that long enough?

Lincoln A. Swartz is a hard working farmer and will make an excellent County Treasurer.

Cyrus T. Hall is a cripple, but will make a first class Recorder. He deserves your support.

Let every Republican resolve to get one more vote besides his own and the result will be surprising.

Only two weeks more for work Make every hour count. A word to Republicans ought to be sufficient.

We would say to every Republican in this county. Get to work; get out the vote. Remember votes win elections.

If every Republican in Centre county does his duty the result will be satisfactory. Therefore let every man do his duty.

To win it is necessary to get out the vote. To get out the vote requires work on the part of every man. Therefore get to work.

Centre County should see to it that General James A. Beaver receives a rousing vote for Superior Judge on Tuesday November 7 h.

Centre county Republicans have learned from experience that it pays to get out the vote. Let them profit as a result of this knowledge.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

The County Commissioners are the business managers of the conuty. They take charge of the business, make the contracts and pay the bills. On them devolves the entire responsibility for the proper expenditure of the taxpayers money. It will be seen, therefore, that good business management means a great deal to the public. If good business managers are elected by the people the business of the county will be properly, wisely and economically codducted. If incapable men or men of poor judgment are entrusted with the administration of these important affairs, the result will be had for the county and a loss to the treasury.

Under the circumstances the importance of entrusting this office to the care of proper hands, ought to be apparent to every voter. The wisdom of electing safe men, men who can be trusted, men of probity and of sound business capacity, ought to appeal to every taxpayer. Those around whom there is the least suspicion that all is not right, should not, under any circumstances, be given a chance to demonstrate their unfitness. They should be ignored by the careful voter and support given those who are known to be safe and capable.

Men like John G. Bailey and Abram V. Miller, who are known to be careful, painstaking and honest, can be voted for without any doubt as to the result in the event of their election. We have had three years of Messrs. Miller and Bailey and know what they are we know that they are. capable and honest, that their judgment has been right and that they have helped save thousands of dollars to the county.

In view of the situation that confronts the people of Centre county at this time there should be no doubt of the election of Messrs. Miller and Bailey. They can be voted for with every assurance of safety and a full realization that the right choice is being made. But this assurance and realization does not apply to their opponents. On the contrary there is much doubt as to what would follow in the event of the success of the candidates on the other side.

Vote for Pontius and Musser for auditors.

If you know of an indifferent Republican get after him at once and don't let up until you have convinced him of the error of his ways.

Vote for Henry Kline for Sheriff.

The business of the county is to great to be trifled with. There will be no trifling with Messrs. Miller and Bailey in the Commissioners office.

Vote for S. M. Huff for Coroner.

Henry Kline will make an ideal sheriff. There will be no neglect of duty charged up against him if he is elected, for he will give his undivided attention to the duties of the office.

Vote for Earle C. Tuten for Register.

Would it be wise to take any chances? The business of Centre county is of too large a volume and too important to be dealt with recklessly. Therefore, let us have good business managers at the helm, and with John G. Bailey and Abram V. Miller that good business management, so much to be desired, will be guaranteed. Reader, is the situation not plain enough to you?

Vote for Miller and Bailey for Commissioners.

THE HOUSEKEEPER.

The Heart Back of the Recipe.

"Why, she (Isabel) sings now..... she that used to be such a sly and timid thing, afraid of her own voice. Perhaps you don't notice these trifles, but you have seen the change that's come over the puddings. "No—really? Over the puddings?' There's a lightness about them, more jam, since the girl got brighter. Ah! it's quite natural. When the soul is heavy, the pudding comes out heavy, too. There can't be the real feeling about the jam. And the teas are quite remarkable compared to what they were. There's a spiciness about the cake now."—Walter Besant in "The Master Craftman."

This from the writer of keen perceptions and large philanthropy, who, to the regret of thousands of appreciative reader, has laid down his strong, beneficient pen, and will write for us no more. Who can help having a feeling of genuine affection for the man who would have hailed with rejoicing the emancipation of every girl and woman in the world from too heavy and toilsome a life, and whose whole influence was toward bringing poor, burdened men and women out into the light? It is proof of true greatness, too, when men of strong intellect and splendid intelligence lend themselves to a consideration of affairs domestic, and in the minor details of commonplace duties can see the condition of one's heart and soul in the outcome of a day's cooking sweeping or mending. He was great enough to realize that God had so ordained that many women of fine natures and quick understanding must nevertheless pass their lives 'midst a kind of drudgery calculated to repress and keep down the best aspirations of soul that must struggle on toward more satisfying things. And it is not, mind you, that the cooking or the sweeping is of itself despised. Oh, no; let home privileges and influences be what they should be, let the heart but be light and unburdened, and the housewife sings over the puddings and the jams. The cup of tea, even, is more perfectly brewed, and the spicy flavor of the cake is more perceptible than when the cook was heavy hearted, and the clogs about the spirit become clogs about the hands. Just here one can almost hear the question, "But what is a woman to do who is staggering under a sense of depression that it is hard to shake off? Here we are, it is argued, bound down by domestic cares and responsibilities that simply cannot be shaken off. It is our lot. We can but submit. Yet while all our longings and desires are in a higher direction; circumstances chain us to the most commonplace and continual round of household cares

Here comes in the difference between the story, the fiction, and the real life. Oh, but, my dear madame, there is only too much truth in the sad fiction, after all. And in that it is the tyranny of the landlord, or perhaps the foreman, or it may be the master of the factory or mill who grinds and grinds until the poor toiler feels herself a mere machine out of which must be ground just so much labor for the pittance that keeps soul and body together. How sweet, how unutterably sweet, would the term "household cares" sound in the ears of these poor homeless and houseless ones could they but find themselves suddenly placed in a position where they could make jam, cake and puddings for their own loved ones! We can easily fancy how the heart behind the recipe would put sugar and spice into precisely the right place, and make what some people who are blind to their privileges, and so consider it drudgery, a very heaven of welcome and delightful opportunity to these homeless and friendless ones.

Now comes the pickling and preserving, the canning and the stewing; the putting away of summer garments, the getting out of winter wear; the hanging of draperies and unrolling of rugs, the dusting and the cleaning incident to neat and orderly home life.

Two women sit in a comfortable room which just now bears evidence of one of these times of transition, confusion and a season's care.

"I wonder," says the home matron, "how many times I have put away and taken out a season's furnishings. I was thinking just now how much of hard work, responsibility and toil all these cares of the family bring to my head and hands. It is a wonder I am not completely worn out by them."

"I was thinking" says the other woman, "of your blessed privileges. What would I give to have your home, your family, your comfortable, dear routine of home and family occupations! The handling of the accustomed furnishing the inspiring planning for the season to come, all so full of dear home life and one's own familiar surroundings and belongings. Hard work? Toil? Cares for the head and hands! And worn out by them? Rather say they preserve your heart and hands, and are grand motives for living and feeling that life is full of God given interest and privilege!

Put the grateful and willing heart back of each duty, each recipe, and there will be lightness, not only perceptible in the cooking, but the brightness of a glad and willing spirit will make all household duties light. Something to be thankful for. It is not the solemn duty of every home maker thus to put a cheerful, willing heart into every family duty, and so regard it also in the light of a privilege?

A JUDGE'S WIFE CURED OF PELVIC CATARRH

MRS. MINNIE E. McALLISTER.

She Suffered For Years and Doctors Failed to Give Relief —Cured by Pe-ru-na.

MRS. MINNIE E. McALLISTER, wife of Judge McAllister of Minneapolis, Minn., and Chaplain Loyal Mystic Legion of America, writes:

"I suffered for years with a pain in the small of my back and right side. It interfered often with my domestic and social duties and I never supposed that I would be cured, as the doctor's medicine did not seem to help me any.

"Fortunately a member of our Order advised me to try Peruna and gave it such high praise that I decided to try it. Although I started in with little faith, I felt so much better in a week that I felt encouraged.

"I took it faithfully for seven weeks and am happy indeed to be able to say that I am entirely cured. Words fail to express my gratitude. Perfect health once more is the best thing I could wish for, and thanks to Peruna I enjoy that now."—Minnie E. McAllister.

Mrs. Esther M. Milner, DeGraff, Ohio, writes:

"I was a terrible sufferer from female weakness and had the headache continuously. I was not able to do my housework for myself and husband. I wrote you and described my condition as near as possible. You recommended Peruna. I took four bottles and was completely cured. I think Peruna a wonderful medicine."—Mrs. Esther M. Milner.

Congressman Thad. M. Mahon, of Chambersburg, Pa., writes:

"I take pleasure in commending your Peruna as a substantial tonic and a good catarrh remedy."—T. M. Mahon.

Light on Female Diseases.

What used to be called female diseases by the medical profession is now called pelvic catarrh. It has been found by experience that catarrhal diseases of the pelvic organs are the cause of most cases of female diseases.

Dr. Hartman was among the first of America's greatest physicians to make this discovery. For forty years he has been treating diseases peculiar to women and long ago he reached the conclusion that a woman entirely free from catarrhal affection of these organs would not be subject to female diseases. He, therefore, began using Peruna for these cases and found it so admirably adapted to their permanent cure that Peruna has now become the most famous remedy for female diseases ever known. Everywhere the women are using it and praising it. Peruna is not a palliative simply; it cures by removing the cause of female diseases.

Dr. Hartman has probably cured more women of female ailments than any other living physician. He makes these cures simply by using and recommending Peruna.

Pe-ru-na Contains No Narcotics.

One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotics of any kind. Peruna is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Peruna does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effect.

As a tonic and nerve invigorator Peruna has no equal.

It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh. There are a multitude of homes where Peruna has been used off and on for twenty years. Such a thing could not be possible if Peruna contained any drugs of a narcotic nature.

MUST LOOK AHEAD

Pennsylvanians Have Vital Interest In the Future of Republicanism.

AN ISSUE IN THE PRESENT FIGHT

[Special Correspondence.]

Philadelphia, Oct. 24.

A communication has been addressed by State Chairman Wesley R. Andrews to all the Republican committeemen in the state outside of this city urging them to take every party voter to the polls on election day, as the result "will greatly affect the campaign of 1906, when a governor, members of the legislature and congressmen are to be chosen." He adds: "On the verdict to be rendered on November 7 next depends very largely whether the representation of Pennsylvania in the halls of congress at Washington shall be maintained or reduced.

"If the latter should be the case, the failure to maintain her present representation might eventuate in the election of a Democratic speaker in the house of representatives, and, thereby, not only greatly embarrass the administration, but lead to a widespread lack of confidence in the business and monetary worlds, to be followed by the suspension of industrial enterprises, throwing out of employment thousands and tens of thousands of workingmen, and, in consequence thereof, the cheapening of farm products and, possibly, the return of the 'souphouse era,' which marked the last Democratic national administration."

Effect of Party Defection.

Party defection in so-called "off years," said Mr. Andrews, "invariably affects party success in subsequent elections, when the governor, members of the legislature and congressmen are to be elected.

"In the fifty-eighth congress, elected in 1902, the Republicans had only 30 majority in the house of representatives at Washington. The Roosevelt tidal wave last year increased the Republican majority to 116. Next year the Republicans will not have President Roosevelt as their standard bearer, and there is a danger that the Republican representation in congress may be reduced. It will not do for Pennsylvania to contribute to that reduction. Yet, if the Republican voters should fail to respond in November, as they have in years past, at least three congressional districts in Pennsylvania, if not more, now represented by Republicans, would next year send Democrats to Washington to sit in the sixtieth congress, which will legislate for the last two years of President Roosevelt's term.

Should Take No Chances.

"It is only the unpractical party man, who refuses to learn by experience, who says that you can throw off your Republicanism in off years and put it on when a governor or a president is to be elected. In 1882 many Republicans were led from their party by that cry, and the result was the election of a Democrat for governor, followed two years later by the election of a Democratic president. In 1890 Republicans again elected a Democratic governor and a Democratic president was inaugurated two years later. These two elections should teach Republicans that they cannot falter in their party allegiance in the state without contributing to Democratic success in the nation.

"Still, I do not anticipate any trouble in Pennsylvania at the coming election. Reports from the country districts indicate that there is no defection in the Republican ranks. I have all along said that Mr. Plummer will have 100,000 majority. I shall increase that estimate and say that it will be much nearer 200,000."

Republicans Will Win.

The Wanamaker newspapers are making a desperate fight to elect the City Party ticket, but they cannot win.

There is an immense amount of money being put in the campaign against the local Republican candidates.

Former Judge Gordon, who has for years been an ardent Democrat, is working with the Wanamaker interests against the Republican party. He has with him Chairman Donnelly, of the Democratic city committee, who has organized a gang of Democratic workers to vote and work for the City Party ticket.

What arrangements have been made with Donnelly to swing Democratic votes to the Wanamaker combine are not known, but the fact remains that many Democrats have refused to follow Donnelly into the Wanamaker camp and will vote the full Republican ticket.

Wanamaker, Gordon and VanValkenburg, the trio of active spirits in the City Party, actually dominate the anti-Republican forces in this city.

They have full sway in the direction of the employes of the Weaver administration and they are giving orders right and left to the police, firemen and other subordinates under the city administration.

Mayor Weaver is not a dominating factor. He takes his political instructions from Judge Gordon, a Democrat, and as he knows little about what is going on, Gordon is admittedly the real boss.

Bashfulness may sometimes exclude pleasure, but seldom opens any avenue to sorrow or remorse.—Johnson.

THE SAME OLD TACTICS

Unsuccessful Efforts to Discredit Republican State Leaders.

PENROSE QUICKLY NAILS A LIE

Unwarranted Use of His Name In Connection With the Bank Failure In Allegheny.

[Special Correspondence.]

Pittsburg, Oct. 24.

In the closing days of what has been a more or less exciting political campaign the Democratic managers are making a desperate effort to turn the tide in favor of William H. Berry, the Prohibition-Democratic-Lincolnite candidate for state treasurer.

Everything has been going against Berry since the day he was nominated, and his defeat by an overwhelming majority is inevitable. They know this, but they still hope to cut down the Republican vote by continuing their schemes of misrepresentation and deliberate falsehood.

The failure of the Enterprise Bank was at once seized upon as furnishing a new field for activity in their peculiar and unenviable methods of campaigning. They have been striving to have it appear that some of the Republican state leaders are, in some inexplicable way, responsible for the closing of the bank, but they have not been able to produce a scintilla of evidence to substantiate their vague intimations.

A Young Man's Statements.

Homer Castle, one of the Prohibition nominees for the Superior court, who has been going up and down the state making wild and irresponsible allegations regarding the management of the state finances, has been one of the most conspicuous of those who have been trying to use the failure of the Enterprise Bank to advance political interests.

Up to the time of his nomination, Castle was not known outside of the small circle of acquaintances near his home, and among them he had little standing as a lawyer, as it has not been long since he was an office boy in a law firm here. Nevertheless he has assumed to speak of matters of which he could not possibly have personal knowledge, as though he were fully and authoritatively informed as to facts and circumstances.

The despicable attempt to connect Senator Penrose with the affairs of this bank was met with a prompt and emphatic denial from the senior senator, as well as with a public statement from John R. Cunningham, the United States bank examiner.

Penrose's Prompt Denial.

This is Senator Penrose's signed statement which effectually nailed the lie, circulated for political purposes, that he had a note in the Enterprise Bank:

"I have no obligations of any kind in the Enterprise National Bank. I am not connected in any way, directly or indirectly, with the notes of W. H. Andrews, if there are any such in the Enterprise National Bank. I have no interest whatever in the Pennsylvania Development Company or with any other project in New Mexico. Any intimations to the contrary are malicious falsehoods for political effect.

(Signed) "BOIES PENROSE."

Following this statement from Senator Penrose, Bank Examiner Cunningham made public this announcement:

"An examination of the papers in the bank shows that there is no paper there with the name of Senator Penrose upon it, either as maker, indorser or guarantor."

Despite these positive statements showing that Senator Penrose's name was used in this connection without authority or justification of any kind, the Democrats have continued to distort the facts in trying to win votes for their candidate for state treasurer.

But there is no reason to believe that they will be successful in that direction.

Berry Not Taken Seriously.

There is no Berry sentiment in this part of the state, and from what is heard from other sections the same condition of affairs exists everywhere throughout the commonwealth.

The Berry candidacy has been more or less of a joke. It has not been taken seriously even by many Democrats who, when they heard that their party had put up a Prohibitionist to head their state ticket, at once reached the conclusion that the Democratic ticket was doomed to defeat by even more than the usual majority.

J. Lee Plummer, the Republican nominee for state treasurer, will get an unprecedented majority for an off-year in Allegheny county. His name is on both the Republican and the Citizens tickets. He will also run well in every county west of the Alleghenies.

The Republican leaders here look for Plummer's total majority in the state to reach nearly 200,000.

Ever since the Republican party has been in power in Pennsylvania the opposition has been attacking the state treasury. But the best offset to the allegations is the fact that the state has never lost a dollar from Republican hands. The only loss was at a time when the Democrats had temporary control of the office. This is a fact of history.

Last Sunday was an important day in Unionville, the Methodist people had arranged for a "harvest home" service at which all the aged people of the town was expected to be in attendance, and quite a number were there. All the different varieties of vegetables, fruit and grain were tastefully arranged in the front of the church, corn in the shock, grain in the sheaf, and Autumn leaves were used in abundance, it all presented a very beautiful appearance. The services were conducted by Rev. Piper and were in honor of the aged people, the music was appropriate and the remarks from Rev. Piper and Rev. Bergen were also for the aged, or those people who are just ripening for eternity, the ripened fruit was supposed to add a special significence to this. A number of the aged people testified to the saving grace of God that has helped them all along their ascent up the hill of life and now down the other side, they gently glide resting on the arms of the living God, May all who heard, take the lesson and be found in the service of the Lord. Communion services had been announced for the same hour at the Presbyterian church, but Rev. Bergen postponed it until 2 o'clock p. m., in order to allow his members to attend the Methodist services, a number of them did and Mr. Bergen was rewarded with finding a goodly number of the M. E. members at his services in the afternoon. This shows a spirit of unity, which has been much neglected in our village in the past, and we trust it may take a different turn from this on,

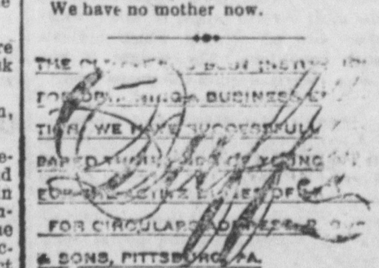
Dear mother thy voice we loved is hushed.
The warm true heart is still.
And thy calm and peaceful face
Is resting in deaths cold chill.

Thy hands are folded on thy breast
We kissed thy lovely brow
And in sad aching hearts we feel
We have no mother now.



Daughter Won Case.

Miss Mary Coogan of Philadelphia won a victory over her father, James Coogan of Shenandoah, in the civil court at Sunbury on Tuesday night, when a jury decided that she had a clear title to a building in Mount Carmel, valued at $5,000. The suit hinged on a case of mistaken identity. When Miss Coogan was a child her father deeded some land in Mount Carmel to her, so that when she grew to womanhood she would have some possessions. At Miss Coogan's seventh birthday her mother died. She was the only child. Coogan remarried, and home relations becoming unpleasant Miss Coogan, at the age of 12 years, went into the world to earn her own living. When Coogan tried to sell the land he had given to his daughter he could not obtain a clear title. His daughter refused to sign away her rights. She said so long as he wanted to live on the property for his own convenience she would not object. Coogan averted that when he deeded Mary Coogan the land he meant it was for a relative by the same name in Pottsville. Witnesses testified he had informed them years ago he had made provision for his daughter.

The Men Fought a Battle With Pistols.

New York, Oct. 23 —Three men fought a battle with pistols on an Eighth avenue car yesterday, and all of them were seriously injured. While the fight was being waged the car ran at top speed for half a mile, with the gong sounding an alarm and the passengers lying flat on the floor to escape the shower of bullets,

Thomas O'Brien, a truckman, jumped aboard the car near Thirty-first street and clapping a revolver to the conductors head, ordered him to run the car at full speed as he was pursued by a gang who intended to kill him. A moment later two more men leaped on the car and attacked the first, all three using revolvers.

When their weapons were empty they clinched and fought with the butts of their pistols. The car run along the avenue, the motorman pounding the gong and the conductor shouting for the police, as far as Twenty-sixth street where several policemen boarded the car and seized the three combatants, all of whom were too badly injured to offer any resistance.

O'Brien was found to have received a bullet in the neck. His assailants gave the names of Henry Prang and Thomas Sullivan. The former had been shot in the neck and the latter in the leg and arm The three were taken to a hospital.

O'Brien refused to explain why the other two attacked him. The police think that the affray was the outcome of a feud in a notorious west side resort.

Bear Hunt by Telephone.

A rural telephone line touching the village of Little Hickory near Westfield, Pa., was put to a unique use the other day. The wife of a farmer whose fields run back to a long stretch of woods saw a black bear shamble out into the orchard and feed on apples.

The subscribers to the telephones have an arrangement by which a continuous ring in case of necessity will bring all the subscribers to the phone,

The farmer's wife, rushing to her phone, rang a full minute and called: 'There's a big black bear in Bailey's woods!'

That was enough. Inside of twenty minutes fifteen men, armed with rifles were racing toward the Bailey home.

There is a public school a quarter of a mile from the Bailey homestead. The teacher heard of the big game, dismissed the school and ran for his gun.

The bear instead of taking to the woods in the rear, started across the valley John R. Taggart, of Little Hickory one of the last men to arrive, saw the animal making for a strip of woods, and though nearly eighty yards distant, he fired and dropped the bear.

It weighed 357 pounds, and when they came to apportion the meat they found that there were twenty-two men who claimed a slice. A raffle was held for the pelt, which is worth at least $20 and Taggart won it.

A Language Lesson.

A Detroit paper assumes the responsibility for this :

A Detroit school teacher, even so early in the term, has met with one of those charming experiences which sometimes fall to the lot of those who instruct the foreign youth of Detroit. She had read a sentence involving the use of the word "disarrange" and she asked for volunteers to define the expression.

At first no one answered, but finally a little Italian on the middle seat raised his hand.

"It have—a something to do with a leetle stove," suggested Nicolo, firmly.

"Oh! no, dear," said the teacher. "It has nothing to do with anything of the kind. What makes you think it has?"

"My fadder," asserted Nicolo, with confidence, "he have a leetle stove and every morning he say: "Damn dis-a range."

FOR ELECTION REFORM

NO TREATING EVEN BY FRIENDS

Neither Party In the Election at Tipton to Hire Carriages or Automobiles to Get Out the Vote—Candidates Not to Enter a Saloon During the Campaign.

Under the law passed by the last general assembly elections will be held in all incorporated towns in Indiana Nov. 7, and it is probable that the most bitter contest in the state will be that for the mayoralty of Indianapolis, where Charles A. Bookwalter is opposed to John W. Holtzman, the present mayor, who defeated Bookwalter two years ago, says a special dispatch from Indianapolis to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Party lines have been obliterated, and the campaign is waxing warm. But there is another contest which rivals it as a matter of interest in the election at Tipton, Ind. The latter campaign is also on for municipal offices, and both parties have agreed for the sake of purity of the ballot the usual methods of a political campaign will not be employed to aid any candidates.

In one city in the state an election is to be held which will be absolutely honest, one in which neither candidate nor voter can be held up for reproach. Tipton, a thriving county seat of 4,000 inhabitants, is the place where this wonderful test is being made. No other place has been heard from where the same conditions have been tried. Tiptonites believe they have started a great wave of election reform—if their election proves successful.

The conditions are almost beyond belief, and it doesn't seem as if a campaign was under way. The peculiar features were brought about through an agreement between J. F. Pyke, chairman of the Republican organization, and J. O. Behmyer, the Democratic chairman. Pyke is an attorney and Behmyer an editor.

They appointed a committee of six practical politicians to draft a new code of election ethics. This committee labored long and with their expert knowledge evolved a set of rules which would make a "ward heeler" weep bitterly.

When these rules were promulgated they were pronounced impossible, but the citizens were imbued with reform, and the rules were adopted by both parties.

So it happens that the campaign fund includes only sufficient funds to defray legitimate expenses—hall rent, music, poll takers, printing, poll book holders and challengers. Candidates shall not enter a saloon until after the election. All treating, even by friends, is barred. Election day neither party is to incur expense in getting out the vote. Carriages and automobiles, which in the past have been kept busy on election day carrying the indifferent to the polls, are to be left at home except as shall be necessary in cases of sickness and physical disability. There is to be no swearing in of voters unless their names are on the poll books.

Now, as to candidates—for theirs is a most important role on election day—they are to assemble in a given place at 6 a. m. and march to the polling places in a body. When all have voted they are to return to the public square and—the provision is made with special emphasis—remain together until the polls are closed at 6 p. m.

This agreement has been signed by hundreds of party workers. The signers agree to act as detectives to see that all provisions of the agreement are kept. In order to give the arrangement more weight a Democratic attorney has been appointed to assist the Republican prosecutor against possible violators of regular laws.

Throughout the state the effect of Governor Hanly's law and open crusade is evident in the municipal campaigns, and in many places his views have been indorsed by Democrats as well as Republicans. At Brazil the Democrats have pledged their candidates to refuse to accept a railroad pass.

A Chilly Warning.

When the pumpkin's decorated
With a filmy veil of frost
And we're hearing tales of flurries
Of the first snow being tossed,
It is then we're realizing
That we've reached the season sere
And soon will be having trouble
With the winter cold and drear.

In a spirit of depression
We sit down and then review
Cost of change of summer raiment
To the garments thick and new.
Heavy shoes and hats and jackets,
Overcoats and underwear—
All are needed, and there's warning
That for them we must prepare.

Next we're turning sad attention
To the gas bills that will boom
As the nights grow long and longer
And we must light up each room.
Then we're thinking of the furnace
That will eat up coal and coke
And of hours of irksome labor
As we rattle, clean and stoke.

Then comes plumbing, dire affliction
We must bear in winter time,
When we're stripped by pipe repairers
To the very last poor dime.
And, to add to all these troubles,
Now and then we'll have to go
To the front or rear and shovel
Off an avalanche of snow.

'Tis a melancholy prospect
That is spread before our gaze
When the leaves and snow give warning
Of the coming frigid days,
But we've bumped against such troubles
In the wintry days of yore,
And 'tis likely that we'll worry
Through them as we did before.
—Theodore H. Price in Pittsburg Dispatch.

HERD OF WHALES MILKED.

Fluid Said to Be Rich In Nutritive and Medicinal Qualities.

Professor Muller of St. John's, N. F., who was the first man to discover that whale flesh could be prepared for eating, has now succeeded in domesticating a herd of more than fifty sulphur cow whales and has perfected an apparatus for milking them, says a dispatch from St. John's, N. F., to the Philadelphia North American.

The milk is fresh and sweet and peculiarly rich in nutritive and medicinal qualities. The yield from a full grown whale is from five to seven hogsheads a day. It is much thicker and richer than the best cow's milk and possesses a peculiarly pleasant and distinctive flavor, which those who have tasted it pronounce superior to any known milk.

Chemical analysis has shown that the milk of the sulphur whale is rich in those products which give to cod liver oil its value as a remedial food.

Professor Muller has invented and patented a process for making leather from the internal membranes of the whale. When tanned and finished it is of great durability and fine texture.

Besides its superior quality the whale leather furnishes single pieces of much greater dimensions than it is possible to procure from any other animal. It is possible, according to the inventor, to obtain from the skin of a full grown sulphur whale a strip of leather about 300 feet in length and three and a half feet in breadth. From the pleural lining a tube of leather twenty-five feet in diameter can be obtained.

TOM PAINE'S BRAIN.

Bought In London and Shown at Ceremony In New Rochelle.

A portion of the brain of Thomas Paine, removed at the time his body was taken from the tomb in New Rochelle, N. Y., and carried to England by William Cobbett in 1819, was recently exhibited by Dr. E. B. Foote, Jr., to thousands who attended the public transfer of the key of the Paine monument to the city of New Rochelle, says a special dispatch to the New York Herald. Dr. Foote was chairman of the meeting and turned the key over to Mayor Clarke.

M. D. Conway, author of a life of Paine, bought a relic in an auction shop in London a few years ago and kept its possession a secret until the city of New Rochelle appropriated sufficient money to properly inclose and preserve the plot in North street, where Paine's body was buried and where his monument now stands. Mr. Conway asked permission to put the relic in the tomb, which was granted. It will be incased in a copper box and reburied in New Rochelle.

This discovery of the brain of Paine leaves little doubt that the story told concerning the theft of his body and that it fell finally into the hands of vandals, who cut it up and sold it for relics, is true.

The key will be hung in the city hall of New Rochelle, where visitors to that city can borrow it to inspect the tomb.

A Football Name.

Football is no joke, but we're all forced to smile
And laugh at the latest by way of Carlisle.
Though Teddy was promised mild football—oh, pshaw!
This Indian halfback's called Kicked-on-the-Jaw.
The redskins have proved that their wise to the game,
And though old Bill Shakespeare asks, "What's in a name?"
There's something that strikes one with feelings of awe
In fancy cognomens like Kicked-on-the-Jaw.
Old Pain-in-the-Face is a name that brings grins,
But how about fullbacks called Poked-in-the-Shins?
And maybe the players will all follow suit—
Just think of a quarter named Banged-on-the-Snoot!
With Thorpe out of school and the rest thinking twice,
Will Morley be thought of as Bill-on-the-Ice?
They'll all have to copy this wild Seneca—
This copper skinned warrior called Kicked-on-the-Jaw.
When the craze has increased will the pride of the "frat"
Be known to the world as old Slam-in-the-Slat?
Or will the right tackle who stands like a rock
Till ambulance time be just Biff-on-the-Block?
If gridiron stars take on titles like these,
Ted's dovie of peace can feel all at its ease.
There's quiet and peace, soft speaking and law
Implied by cognomens like Kicked-on-the-Jaw.
—Walter A. Sinclair in New York Evening World.

Agricultural Experiment.

The agricultural department is going to try to fool nature, says a Washington dispatch to the New York American. It is projecting a series of tests to see if cabbage and beets and garden things cannot be made to grow as well under electric light as under the influence of the sun's rays. The idea is that with the use of the electric light and the heat it will give off the beds may be placed under conditions as favorable for the growth of fruit and vegetables in winter as in summer.

New Type of Street Car.

Montreal has a new type of railway car, says the Toronto Mail and Empire. The passenger enters at the rear end and passes through a doorway, where the conductor in a species of ticket office collects the fare. It is stated that the company gathers in 25 per cent more fares in this car than it did in the old type. This is one of those reforms that street railway companies find out for themselves.

NOTES OF THE RAILWAYS

The Pennsylvania to Purchase Steel Passenger Coaches.

GIANT ENGINES ON LAKE SHORE

Heaviest Switching Locomotives In the World Used on That Line—Some Interesting Railway Statistics—A Unique Road Planned For Joplin, Mo.—Santa Fe to Build Cutoff.

Plans have been perfected by the Pennsylvania Railroad company to place orders for 1,500 pressed steel passenger coaches, which will entail an expenditure of over $7,000,000 and which marks the first step of the great railroads of the country to abolish the wooden cars and substitute metal, says the Pittsburg Dispatch.

The management of the railroad has had such an order under consideration for several months, and as a result orders for the usual annual equipment of passenger coaches were practically withheld.

The cars will be constructed entirely of steel, and their adoption will eliminate the telescoping of cars and the danger of fire following a smashup. It is understood that the greater portion of the cars will be used in the fast limited service between New York, Pittsburg and Chicago, while the rest will be used in suburban service in crowded districts.

The success of the steel coaches used on the Long Island railroad, a subsidiary concern of the Pennsylvania, which were placed in service as an experiment, is the primary cause of the big order. The coaches of the Pennsylvania, however, will be much larger and will be a few feet longer than the present wooden cars.

The heaviest switching locomotives in the world have been placed in service on the lines of the Lake Shore railroad, says the New York Herald. Two are at Collinwood, O., one at Ashtabula and two at Elkhart, Ind. The weight of each of the monsters, including one tender, is 419,600 pounds, or nearly 210 tons. The capacity of the tender is 8,000 gallons of water.

When the Bessemer railroad installed yard engines weighing 391,400 pounds, or 250,300 pounds without the tender, and with a tank capacity of 7,000 gallons, all records for size were eclipsed. It was predicted that locomotives of such size would not be a success. If ever they got off the track it would be a mighty job to get them on again. It was reasoned that if such mammoth rolling stock ever came into general use heavier rails would be required and bridges would need to be strengthened.

Since that time, however, nearly every road in the country has been preparing for mammoth locomotives by laying heavy rails and replacing old bridges, and the introduction by the Lake Shore of a locomotive larger than the giants of the Bessemer is another step in development. The locomotives built by the Brooks works of the American Locomotive company and just installed by the Lake Shore are 28,200 pounds heavier than those of the Bessemer. The engine without the tender is 19,700 pounds heavier. The capacity is 500 gallons greater.

According to the most recent German statistics, the length of the railroads of the world was 537,105 miles on Dec. 31, 1904, of which 270,386 miles were in America, 187,776 miles in Europe, 46,592 miles in Asia, 15,649 miles in Africa and 16,702 miles in Australasia, says the Railway and Engineering Review.

Of the mileage of European railroads Germany stands first, 34,016, followed in their order by Russia, 33,236; France, 28,266; Austria-Hungary, 24,261; the United Kingdom, 22,592; Italy, 16,025; Spain, 8,656; Sweden and Norway, 7,730. The average cost of construction of the European railroads per mile is estimated at $107,577, while for the remainder of the world the estimate is only $59,680.

The total value of the railroads of the world, according to these statistics, is $43,000,000,000, of which the European roads figure for $22,000,000,000. The estimate for rolling stock is as follows in numbers: Locomotives, 150,000; passenger coaches, 225,000, and freight cars, 3,000,000.

The most unique railway in the country and one that appeals to business men of both the city and country is proposed for Joplin, Mo., and surrounding towns. The feature of the road is that instead of electric power gasoline motor cars are to be used, which will not only save the expense of installing power plants and maintaining trolley and feed lines, but will eliminate the danger to life that is always found in electric lines.

E. P. Ripley, president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway, has decided to build a direct rail connection with Galveston, Tex. He has just incorporated the Gulf, Santa Fe and Northwestern railway. The Santa Fe will thereby have a second and shorter overland line to California.

Golf Without Profanity.

A new sect known as "Christian Golfists" has been founded by the Rev. George Cady, one of the best known Congregational divines in Iowa, says a dispatch from Iowa Falls. Dr. Cady, who is an enthusiastic golfer, manages to play the game without using profane language, and he thinks he can induce others to drop that habit.

TRIBUTE TO HENRY IRVING.

Kindliest of Men on Stage and Off Says Miss Cecilia Loftus.

Miss Cecilia Loftus, the actress, recently paid the following tribute to the late Sir Henry Irving, the famous English actor, who was, in a manner, her teacher and leader during ten months of stage experience, says a Detroit special dispatch to the New York World:

"I feel that Sir Henry Irving's death was a personal loss to me. He was a most lovable man, and during the season of 1902, in which I was a member of his company, I learned to love and admire him for his many charming qualities.

"I played Marguerite to his Mephistopheles in 'Faust' for six months in London and for four months in the provinces, and I may say it was the happiest and most satisfactory season of my stage experience.

"On the stage and off Sir Henry was the kindliest of men. That mannerism in speech so much mentioned was natural to him, and the tones that were accentuated in order that speech might carry across the footlights became much softer and were pleasantly modulated in private conversation.

"Sir Henry had his peculiarities, it is true, and they were sometimes disconcerting. For instance, in 'Faust' Mephistopheles in one scene is hidden behind a tree while Marguerite occupies the stage. At these times it was Sir Henry's habit to continually read my lines ahead of me, a circumstance that was somewhat confusing. This was a habit that grew upon him with years.

"While on our tour Miss Terry, Lawrence Irving and I occupied a private car with Sir Henry, and I used to look forward to each Sunday as a time of pleasure, for then the great tragedian descended from his heights and while we traveled joked and told us funny stories. The last night that I was with him he came to me just as I was about to go on for the jewel scene, and, standing there in his habit as Mephistopheles, he drew a necklace about my throat, giving me at the same time his best wishes.

"Later we attended a banquet in his honor given by the lord mayor of Liverpool, and when called upon to respond to the speeches addressed to him Sir Henry insisted upon rising and telling the people assembled that I was about to leave him, how sorry he was and how he hoped I might some time return to his company. It was embarrassing for me, and yet it was one of the great pleasures of my life.

"Sir Henry was a fatherly man to those who were younger than he and whom he liked. I remember as I bade him goodby that night he kissed my forehead and hand and called me his 'little girl.'

"You can readily see that all my recollections of Sir Henry Irving are of the pleasantest. I had all along been looking forward to seeing him this year, and it had been my hope that I might be associated with him once more professionally."

Appendicitis and Grapes.

At this season millions of Americans eat grapes, seeds and pulp together, with little thought of appendicitis or any other danger, says the Cleveland Leader. Thousands use them with care to reject the seeds for fear they may make trouble for the curious and apparently useless vermiform appendix. An unknown but surely large number deny themselves the wholesome and pleasant fruit of the vine because they have a more or less definite idea that risk to life and bodily vigor lies in its juicy globes. Meanwhile hundreds of millions of the people of Europe and Asia—the Italians, Spaniards, Portuguese, Greeks, French, Germans, Austrians, Hungarians, Turks and Persians—eat grapes to an extent uncommon in America. If they suffer as often from appendicitis as the most careful people of this country there are no records which indicate such conditions. The weight of evidence clearly acquits the grape seed.

Japan's New Stamp For Korea.

A new postage stamp has been issued in Tokyo for use in the protectorate of Korea. It bears the chrysanthemum as the emblem of Japan, the plum blossom as symbolical of Korea and two pigeons representing the postal service.

BOER COLONY FOR TEXAS.

Thousands of Agriculturists to Settle In Southwest.

The Boer colony of farmers in Mexico have accepted an offer to settle in southwest Texas, in the new country recently opened up by the Brownsville road, says a dispatch from Galveston, Tex. The tract of irrigated land comprises about 75,000 acres. General Ben Valjoen, who acts for himself and 200 Boer families, promises several thousand agriculturists within two years.

Fifty families are ready to move from Chihuahua, Mexico, where they have been robbed of their investments and labor by the faulty land records. After building their homes and tilling the soil the Boers found they could not perfect titles and sought to get back their money, but the Mexicans refused and threatened to confiscate the possessions. The Boers have appealed to the Mexican government for relief.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

Home of Swamp-Root.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

FIRST IN THE FIED

Just commenced in the New York Family Story paper

A Modern Bluebeard

or the adventures of a Female Sherlock Holmes a realistic romance founded on fact by Fanny May. You who have been reading the daily papers can easily imagine how the thougnt came to the author's mind to write this story. Though purely a romance, many of its most sensational and dramatic scenes are based on fact. It is a startling expose of a wicked man's wiles. This realistic romance begins in No. 1644 of THE NEW YORK FAMILY STORY PAPER

It's Dangerous To Doubt.

You have no right to doubt a thing that has been tested and found to rest on fact. Vin-te-na has cured so many people in so many parts of the country that it is really unjust to predict a failure in any case that has gone beyond the power of medicine.

Vin-te-na purifies the blood and makes the nerves strong and steady. It not only cures disease but safeguards the system against every form of germ disease. Most all diseases are rooted in the blood. Vin-te-na cures the very cause of all blood disorders by destroying the impurities in the blood and giving it purity and warmth. Get it and be strong.

Two Dyspeptics

If you are too fat it is because your food turns to fat instead of muscle—strength. If you are too lean the fat producing foods that you eat are not properly digested and assimilated.

Lean, thin, stringy people do not have enough Pepsin in the stomach, while fat people have too much Pepsin and not enough Pancreatine.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

contains all the digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach, and in exactly those proportions necessary to enable the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all foods that may be eaten. Kodol is not only a perfect digestant, but it is a reconstructive, tissue building tonic as well. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Palpitation of the Heart and Constipation. You will like it.

Digests What You Eat

Rests the stomach, rebuilds the tissues and gives firm flesh.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science is able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Saloonkeeper Must Pay $1,750 to Widow.

After being out three hours, the jury in the case of Anna Roe vs James Dudley of Princeton, Ind., and the Fidelity Guarantee company of Baltimore, Md., brought in a verdict giving the plaintiff $1,750 as compensation for the death of her husband, Henry Roe.

Mrs. Roe contended that Dudley sold her husband liquor until he became intoxicated, and that he subsequently met death while enroute home in a drunken condition. The verdict sets a precedent in southern Indiana courts. The parties to the suit reside in Sullivan county. This was the fourth trial of the case.

Between the ages of fifteen and forty-five, the time when womanhood begins and motherhood ends, it is estimated that the aggregate term of women's suffering is ten years. Ten years out of thirty! One third of the best part of a womens life sacrificed! Think of the enormous loss of time! But time is not all that is lost. Those years of suffering steal the bloom from the cheeks, the brightness from the eyes, the fairness from the form. They write their record in many a crease and wrinkle. What a boon then to women, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It promotes perfect regularity, dries up debilitating drains, heals ulceration, cure female weakness, and establishes the delicate womanly organs in vigorous and premanent health. No other medicine can do for woman what is done by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescripton.

THE TEXAN RANGERS.

First Fight With Indians In Which Revolvers Were Used.

John Coffee Hays was reared on a farm in Wilson county, Tenn., being born there in 1817. At the age of eighteen he migrated to Texas, where, during the struggle of that Mexican province for independence, he served with distinction in the military campaign conducted by General Sam Houston, being noted for his bravery and strategy. After the termination of that conflict Hays was placed in command of the small regular force that was shortly afterward organized and became known to fame as the Texan rangers. Many were the desperate fights in which he was engaged with the fierce Comanches and border Indians, and innumerable were the perils which he encountered. He was the first to supply an armed force with Colt's revolvers for use in battle.

The Indian mode of warfare in those early days was to draw their enemy's fire and then sweep down upon them like a whirlwind, plying their bows and using their long spears with deadly effect. So cautious were they in this respect that they soon distinguished the double barreled gun when it was brought into use and only approached when they were sure that such weapons had been emptied. On the first occasion when Hays and his rangers, armed with the revolvers, met a band on the warpath they allowed their fire to be liberally drawn, and then the Indians charged with exultant cries, but when the revolver was brought into play at close quarters the panic that ensued was absolute and the destruction of the Indians complete. Hays was colonel of the First Texan regiment, the nucleus of which was formed of veteran rangers.

CEMETERY VAULTS.

The Building of Them Is a Profession In Itself.

The vault was the size of the usual cemetery vault—one small room, roofed, floored and walled with granite, an ordinary vault—and yet the undertaker said it had cost $25,000.

"But there is no carving on it," objected the man who thought of buying a lot. "It is as plain as a pipestem, and all the stone it contains could be bought for $10,000 or less."

"True, true," said the undertaker. And he pointed to another vault that might have been the first one's twin. "That only cost $15,000," he said, "a saving of $10,000, but the broker who bought it got abominably stuck.

"The cheap vault, you see, was built, as a house is, by an architect and an ordinary builder. It looks good. It will last for centuries. But, by Jove, it leaks like a sieve! After every storm it is flooded, and two of the cemetery attendants have to charge up a day's time against the owner for cleaning it out.

"Vault building is a profession in itself. To make for a vault a waterproof roof of enormous granite slabs is an art that only the vault builder understands. When the ordinary builder, no matter how proficient he may be, undertakes this task he fails lamentably. The vault leaks. After every storm its floor is flooded.

"Therefore, if ever you invest in a vault let a specialist erect it for you. He will charge you a good many thousands extra, but he will give you a good, satisfactory job."—New York Herald.

Docile Ducks of the Chinese.

In China the duck is much esteemed as an article of diet, and what may be called duck farms are common on most of the rivers. The birds are taught to hunt for their food, and the rearing of them costs little. They are kept in boats with a platform or deck extending outward on each side. These boats are taken to the shallow, marshy parts by the banks of the streams, and the ducks are then driven ashore to enjoy themselves in the mud flats. So well are the birds trained that at a given signal they cease eating and follow their leader back into the boat, where they lie during the night. Ducks preserved by being salted are a favorite food with the well to do.

Indian Remedies.

The Indian pharmacopoeia comprised thoroughwort, spurge and Indian hemp, used as emetics; the bark of the horse chestnut and butternut, used as cathartics. They were also acquainted with many poisons, most of which were used on their weapons. For asthma they employed tobacco and sassafras, for coughs slippery elm, for dropsy the wild gooseberry, for wounds powdered puff balls. They treated boils with onion poultices.

Lovers of Coffee.

The London Globe doubts whether there is anywhere in the world a place more addicted to coffee than the little island of Groix, about nine miles distant from Lorient. The customs' records show that the annual consumption of coffee in the island is about 90,000 pounds. Now, the population is 5,300, and, as the men pass practically their whole lives afloat as seamen, this large quantity must be consumed by about 3,000 women, children and old men. It works out at thirty pounds a head per annum.

A Healthy Puppy.

"There's only one good thing about that young puppy that came to see you last night," said the irascible father, "and that is he's healthy."

"I'm surprised to hear you admit that much," replied the dutiful daughter.

"I wouldn't except for the fact that when you met him in the hall last night I heard you say, 'Oh, George, how cold your nose is!'"

The Renewal a Strain.

Vacation is over. Again the school bell rings at morning and at noon, again with tens of thousands the hardest kind of work has begun, the renewal of which is a mental and physical strain to all except the most rugged. The little girl that a few days ago had roses in her cheeks, and the little boy whose lips were then so red you would have insisted that they had been "kissed by strawberries," have already lost something of the appearance of health. Now is a time when many children should be given a tonic which should avert such serious trouble, and we know of no other so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla, which strengthens the nerves, perfects digestion and assimilation, and aids mental development by building up the whole system.

Boys to be Envied.

Last Monday the day School of Applied Science, one of the group of Carnegie Technical Schools, opened for instruction, and 120 fortunate youths who will compose the first class entered the institution. The wide field of usefulness which these schools will occupy, and the extent to which the advantages they afford are appreciated, are evidenced by the applications of 1,723 ambitious students. The care with which the students are chosen is shown by the rejection of 1,119 on the ground of insufficient preparation and on account of other considerations. While but 120 will enter at first, others who have qualified will be admitted as soon as sufficient accommodations are provided.

In view of the recent statement of a Chicago educator that the day of the self-made man is over, it is interesting to note that one-third of the students composing the first class of the School of Applied Science are absolutely self-supporting. These will find it necessary to work at night to earn the money for their education. They are the kind of fellows who generally give a good account of themselves in the classroom. While graduates from schools in all parts of the country are flocking hither, many of the students were prepared at the Pittsburg and Allegheny high schools, and it is safe to say, as proved by their passing the rigid entrance examinations, that they were thoroughly grounded in the necessary subjects. A valuable feature of the Carnegie Technical schools will be the individual instruction which the pupils will receive. Not more than 24 pupils will engage the attention of one instructor. The night schools will open before long, as soon as the equipment is in place, affording a welcome opportunity to enterprising boys who are at work during the day. The youths who have gained admission to this great institution are to be congratulated. They have taken an important step toward success in life.

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

—A handsome new flag stone walk has been laid in front of W. Homer Crissman's residence on North Thomas street.

—F. E. Naginey has put down a fine pavement of large flag stones in front of his furniture store building on Allegheny street. It was furnished by Johnson, the marble man.

—The "Spinisters" who are on their way to the "Klondike" will hold a convention in Petrikin Hall, Friday night You are all invited to come and see them transformed into beautiful young ladies.

—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew B. Young, of South Allegheny, street, are rejoicing over the birth of a young son that arrived at their home on Friday morning. We expect Andy will make a printer out of him. Accept our congratulations.

—It might be well to mention just once more before the snow flies that there are a number of sidewalks in different sections of town that are sadly in need of repair. It might be easier and cheaper to put them in proper shape now than to defend their condition in a court of justice later on.

—Has a man a right to spit? asks an exchange, and then it proceeds to answer the question thusly: "You bet he has, and a right to breathe, a right to live, and a right to express his opinion; a right to kick and a right to work, also a right to vote and pay taxes, and to find fault with everybody and everything he don't like. Man has a whole lot of right, but he should exercise them all like a gentleman."

—At the First Lutheran parsonage in Tyrone Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock, Rev. F. L. Bergstresser pronounced the solemn words which united in marriage John H. Friday, of Vail, and Miss Mary E. Harshberger, of Port Matilda The young couple were attended by Geo. Harshberger a brother of the bride, and Miss Doddie Gates, of Tyrone. The union is one that calls for only the warmest commendation and happiest wishes. The bride is a competent and esteemed young lady and the groom who is a son of Hiram Friday is a worthy son of a worthy sire. May long life and prosperity attend them.

—Last Saturday evening Past Grand Wm. H. Fry, assisted by Past Grands Krebs, Goss, Walker, Tate and Walker installed the newly elected officers of Pennsvalley lodge 276, I. O. O. F. Noble Grand, Walter Weaver; vice grand, John Reish; treasurer, J. G. Heberling, reading secretary, Harry Walker, financial secretary, M. E. Heberling; chaplain, Dr. R. M. Krebs; conductor, J. B. Heberling; warden, W H Fry, R. S. to N. G., J W Fry, L. S. to N. G., Harry Sunday, R. S. to V. G., Chas Meyers; L. S. to V. G., Geo. Rossman; R. S. S., Ellory Parsons; L. S. S., John Everhart; I. S. G., Harry McCracken; O. S. G., J E Bressler; Rep. to Grand Lodges, G. E. Harper; trustee, Wm. H. Fry.

—A good story was told at a bankers convention in Pittsburg to illustrate the result which can be achieved by consistant advertising. In a Pitteburg rolling mill a bar of steel weighing half a ton was suspended by a chain, and near it was hung a bottle cork by a silk thread. The cork was allowed to swing against the great mass of metal, striking each time the same spot. No result was preceptible for at least ten minutes when the bar began to quiver. In thirty-five minutes it was swinging like the pendulum of a clock. Advertisers who expect immedite results from a single advertisement spasmodically placed before the public would do well to ponder over this story. It is the persistent hammering kept up month after month and year after year that is certain to start the pendulum of success swinging in your direction.

—In the United States there are 5,319,912 women and girls employed outside of their homes, one-half of whom are under 25 years of age. One-tenth of the women engaged in manufacturing industries are married. Women constitute 18.4 per cent. of the whole number of workers, as shown by the census of occupation tables, but since they do not work so steadily as men the proportion of female labor is considerably less than 18.4 per cent. The merciful man is merciful to his beast. Humanity to working animals in the heated term is a good investment besides being a virtue, as care taken of beasts of burden in seeing that they are not overloaded nor overworked, are well watered and spared the lash, returns itself many times in the added value of the animals to their owners and the lessening of chances of losing them. In fact, humanity is easily coined into money in this respect, and where feeling does not inspire it the pocket nerve ought to recommend it.

—Russel Blair bagged three nice pheasants on last Tuesday.

—Mrs. John McGinley who has been very seriously ill is very much improved at this writing.

—James Kreps, of Boggs Twp. and W. E. Frank, of Philipsburg, took two prisoners to Pittsburg. They returned home Saturday.

—The Jackson, Mich., Morning Patriot, of October 7th, is authority for the statement that Chauncey F. York, the Malena man of Warriorsmark, had become the owner of the Palmer cottage, on the north shore of Clark's lake, Mich., which he will make his summer home in the future. The Patriot also intimates that Mr. York is considering moving his factory from Warriorsmark to Jackson, a fact which, if correct, is news to everybody hereabouts.

—The wild turkey and pheasant season came in on Sunday but Monday was the first day on which the birds could be legally shot. But that was a bad day for the opening as the woods were too dry to get within sight or hearing of the birds. The most successful man so far heard of was George Uzal, who bagged five pheasants and a wild turkey; Bill Haynes got four pheasants; two boys up Bald Eagle got a turkey each early in the morning; Will Garman shot two pheasants but lost one; Jack Decker got a pheasant and a squirrel and Geo. R. Meek shot one pheasant while seated in Bob Hunter's four-cylinder Franklin in which they were running over Muncy mountain.

—Clarence Ringler, while coon hunting in the woods near Trout Run, Lycoming county, Saturday night treed a black bear Though he built a fire, the reflection did not disclose bruin in his hiding place, so Ringler camped at the foot of the tree until dawn Then he remembered that there is a penalty of $25 for shooting on Sunday. He knew that if he were to leave the tree the bear would come down and escape. He could see the animal close against the trunk of the tree, about 30 feet above ground, and he determined to have the game. There was no other way than to remain on guard, and this he did until 6 o'clock on Monday morning, when in the gray dawn, he drew a bead on the black heap up in the tree and let drive. There was a scratching and struggling for a minute, and then the bear, badly wounded, came tumbling down A second shot killed it The bear weighed 287 pounds

BERRY IN BELLEFONTE

Large Crowd Listens to Democrat--Prohibition Nominee.

The public rally held in the Court House Wednesday evening to listen to the Democratic candidate for State Treasurer, William H. Berry, of Chester, drew a large crowd to the Court house. Two bands of music, the Coleville and State College bands were present and furnished the music A special train on the Bellefonte Central brought two car load of people from Buffalo Run. There were no other special trains but quite a number of people drove to town from the surrounding country.

Candidate Berry and his party arrived in Bellefonte at 1:05 and were met by Col, Spangler, Capt. Taylor and others.

The meeting in the Court house was presided over by Col. J. L Spangler. Addresses were made by Hon. A. A Stevens, of Tyrone; Hon. R. S. Scott Ammerman, of Danville, and Hon. Wm. H. Berry, Mayor of Chester, and candidate for State Treasurer on the Democratic-Prohibition and Lincoln party ticket.

Mayor Berry is an eloquent speaker and he got off some very witty sayings. Of course he delivered the usual tirade against the Republican party and J. Lee Plummer in particular.

The Old Maids

For several years the research work of Professor Jacques Loeb, of the University of California has aroused wonderful interest, perhaps not so much from the scientific value of it as that it suggested possibilities never before dreamed of, arresting life processes, reinvigorating impaired vitalities, prolonging life indefinitely etc. There is no denying the fact that we would all keep youth, eternally if it were possible, and it is to be made possible for us this very week. No need to await the outcome of Dr. Loeb's experiments. A sure method is offered in the Remodeloscope of Professor Makeover, who has been secured at great expense by the ladies aid of the Methodist church to give a practical demonstrations, on Friday evening in Petrikin Hall, of his triumph over time. His machine will make you over into any type of beauty you desire to become, will restore to you your lost youth. After you see what he does with the Spinsters in his convention you will always be glad of the twenty five cents spent on his machine.

Methodist Preacher Becomes Presbyterian.

Dr. E. J. Gwynne, of Martinsburg, for many years a minister in the Methodist Episcopal church has decided to enter that of the Presbyterian church, and for that purpose he appeared before the Huntingdon Presbytery, of which Blair county forms a part, at Huntingdon last week for the preliminary course necessary for Dr. Gwynne to take a post graduate course at a theological seminary of that denomination, and it is his intention to go to Princeton. Dr. Gwynne, who is a native of Blair county, has been a member of the Methodist Church all his life, and has been in the ministry for many years. His reasons for making the change are entirely theological.

The funeral will take place Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late residence. Interment in the Union cemetery.

Golden Birthday for Well Known Gentleman.

The beautiful home of J. D, Earon in Colebrook township, Clinton county, was all astir Tuesday Oct. 17, over a social event of more than ordinary interest, the occasion being the 50th birthday anniversary of that gentleman who is so happily married to Maggie Packer daughter of the Robert Packer. In the arrangement of the details for this happy event and its successful carrying out. Mrs. Earon was greatly assisted by her daughters Misses Mary and Maud as well as her two sons Thurman and Joseph.

About 60 invited friends were present during the day from Unionville, Howard and other nearby towns as well as from Bellefonte, Lock Haven and Williamsport.

All was kept a profound secret from Mr. Aaron until the dinner hour when he reached home from Ferney run where he and his boy had gone at 4 o'clock in the morning to finish putting logs in the river. All present enjoyed his surprise, as he had to present himself in his wet torn clothes. At 12.30 o'clock as many as could be seated were called to the dinning room to a table loaded down, It was an inexhaustable dinner nor was the quantity alone a remarkable feature, for the variety and its manner of preparation cannot be excelled anywhere or by anyone; nothing was missed from the bill of fare. A handsome anniversary cake adorned the centre of the table.

During the afternoon Mr. Earon, among the numerous other testimonials of the occasion, was presented with a Morris chair from his children. His presents were many and of the finest kind. An address was made by Hon. John A. Daley, of Romola. Mr. Daley, as so many of his friends know, is always equal to an emergency of this kind, but on this particular occasion he completely excelled himself. Misses Mary and Anna Graham, of Bellefonte took a prominent part in the musical program of the day. Miss Graham, the pianist, also contributed largely in making the vocal part so pleasing.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. McMinn, of Williamsport; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Rich. Mrs. Wm. Rich. Woolrich; Mrs. J. B. Graham, Misses May and Anna Graham. Bellefonte; Hon. John A. Daly, Romola; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Earon, Unionville; Mrs. Packer and son Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Christ Earon, Mrs. Shoemaker, Mill Hall; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hanna, Mrs. Charles Strunk, Lockport; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Fredericks, Mr. and Mrs. Moore Fredericks, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Kinley, Mrs. A. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Woodward, and daughter, Mrs. Geo. Sweet, Mrs. J. D. White, Miss Tillie White, Mrs. Wagner, Mrs. G. W. Sweet, Louis Crider, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Hipple, C. Burg, Lock Haven; Mrs. Mulhern and daughter, Farrandsville.

To give the names of all would fill a column. All enjoyed the day, leaving in the evening wishing Mr. Earon long life and many returns of the happy occasion.
